RECONSTRUCTION.

SENATOR WILSON AT CHARLESTON.

AN EX-REBEL LECTURER REPRESSED AT LYNCHBURG, VIRGINIA—EQUALITY OF COLOR IN THE CHARLESTON RAILROAD CARS—SENATOR WILSON'S SOUTHERN CAMPAIGN.

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 3.—Senator Wilson was called on to-day by quite a number of citizens. Their intercourse was pleasant and agreeable.

In compliance with a numerously signed request he delivered an address this evening in Citadel square. An immense assemblage of colored people was on the ground, probably five thousand. A few hundred white persons were also among the audience. Mr. Wilson spoke from a stand which was hung with flags and evergreens.

Directly facing him was the large pile of building known as the Citadel, and which was used before and during the war as the State Military Academy. From its flagstaff floated the national banner, and half-a-dozen large field guns were trained in front of its wide portal. It is used as the headquarters of the garrison. The tents of a colored company are pitched in one quarter of the treeless and shrubless square, and sentries, white and black, paced up and down their respective posts. Soldiers loitered around and made part of the audience, and occasionally the beat of a drum or a bugle note interrupted the Senator's speech, recalling the fact that the Government here is essentially military. It was near five o'clock when Mr. Wilson came on the stand. The sun was then shining fiercely on the scene, but before the speech was finished the sun had gone down.

Dr. A. G. Mackey, formerly a practising physician here, now Collector of the Port, presided over the meeting, and introduced Mr. Wilson as a profound statesman and distinguished legislator, from whom the people wished to learn something of the objects of recent legislation. It was in order that they might have that opportunity that he had reluctantly consented to preside.

Prayer was offered by Mr. Randolph, a colored clergyman, and then Mr. Wilson, who was loudly cheered, proceeded to address the large assemblage of black men and women before him. He commenced by stating that he was here by invitation, and that no one but himself was responsible for what he should say. He then proceeded to recount the history of South Carolina and of her leading men in championing the existence, perpetuity, and extension of slavery in America. The conflict, he said, continued from 1776 till the opening of the Rebellion.

Up to that time it was a conflict of sentiment and opinion, but with the opening of the Rebellion it became a conflict of arms. After four bloody years liberty had triumphed, and slavery had died to rise no more forever. (Loud cheers and expressions of gratifications by the colored people.) During the past two years, he continued, since the surrender of Lee's armies, and since the old flag went up again over Sumter, we have had again a conflict of opinion, and it required no foresight to see to-day that freedom cannot be conquered, and that the policy of equal rights, equal privileges, and equal immunities, of all men in America, is hereafter to be the policy of this republic. (Jubilations by the negroes.) In all the conflict South Carolina has borne a leading part, and has borne the flag of slavery proudly defiant as the Ark of the Covenant. Mr. Wilson referred, in this connection, to the efforts and declarations of Rutledge, Pinckney, Butler, Waddy Thompson, Hammond, Calhoun, Keitt, Boyce, and Bonham, in Congress, and to the forcible expulsion from Charleston of Mr. Hoare, who was sent by the State of Massachusetts to test the constitutionality of a South Carolina law, and imprisoning colored sailors in her ports. Continuing his remarks, he said—I do not refer to this by way of reproach; I state it to show the position which your State occupied under her lead. The faith and creed of the Revolutionary fathers was disowned, the doctrines of Washington, Jefferson and Madison were repudiated. Bold and able young men, accepting the theories of Mr. Calhoun, became the enthusiastic champions of human bondage, and drove the moderate men, the old Jackson Democrats and the Henry Clay Whigs, out of the public councils. They boldly and defiantly proclaimed in Congress their right to carry slavery into the Territories, and to maintain it there by positive law. And when we, fearing God, fearing the verdict of future ages, refused to accede to their demands, they raised the standard of revolt, and inaugurated the Rebellion. We fought for four years the men of the South. They exhausted their possessions, sent their young men to battle-fields, and made sacrifices which cannot but win the respect of the world. Their sons fought with heroic valor on more than six hundred fields; but the cause of the country, the cause of humanity, of Christian civilization, triumphed, and slavery sank into a traitor's grave, to leave a traitor's name in the history of the republic. (Applause by colored men and women.) This is a brief record of the contest of ideas from 1776 up to this hour. The fruits of your ideas and principles are now clear to the comprehension of the whole Christian and civilized world. You realize that your ideas have perished. You may go in yonder street, and gaze on the spot where stood the hall in which your great proclamation of disunion was made, and you see dust and ashes, but you cannot ever see dust and ashes where the ideas and principles and policy of the Rebellion are to-day. They are gone, glimmering amid the dreams of things that were. You are further from them to-day than you were yesterday, and you will be further from them to-morrow than you are to-day. (Cheers.) No action of yours, no power on God's earth, nothing but the power of Almighty God—and He will not exercise it—can bring back again the policy associated with human bondage in America. (Applause.) These men around me and about me are free to-day—as free as the Governor of South Carolina or the Mayor of Charleston. (The colored men and women cheered and waved their hats and handkerchiefs, and a negress to illustrate her view of the status exclaimed "Free as de frogs.") Mr. Wilson continued:—"They are not only free, but they are citizens of the great all-conquering and unconquerable republic of united America. (Cheers.) Their rights, privileges, and immunities are as sacred as those of the oldest families of South Carolina, and no power in South Carolina or out of it can bring back slavery—can deny citizenship to these black men, or place them before the law in a position of inequality. (Cheers.) This is achieved. It is the will of the North American republic. I trust you will see to it that the constitution and laws of South Carolina are made to conform to these vital, triumphing, and loving principles of liberty and right. I trust that the State of South Caroline, which led in this great contest, will turn her back square on the past and face the coming future. Every word spoken, every line written, every act performed, to preserve for a moment longer anything connected or associated with human slavery, and with the policy of South Carolina in the past, is only a burden on South Carolina in the future. I say to you, men of Charleston, your cause is lost, and lost forever. Your State, which had her fortune invested in lands and bondmen, has become, in proportion to her numbers, the poorest State in the Union. No State has felt the effects of this Rebellion more than South Carolina. You want capital here to make your fields blossom again. You want farmers here; you want diversified industry; you want a new acting, living policy, to place South Carolina alongside of the advancing and prosperous States of the Union. Then, in God's name, be as brave in the right as you were in the wrong. Send your able men to the public councils. Commission them to speak and to vote for liberty, for justice, for education. I believe I express the wish of the people of my State and section, when I tell you to-day that our people do not want your lands, your blood, or anything else you possess. They only want these poor enfranchised bondmen to be forever secured in their equal rights; they only want to see your State a great, free, prosperous, proud Commonwealth again. Addressing himself specially to the colored people, he said:—You are now the peers and equals of every other man in the country in your rights, and I trust you will be the equals of every other man in devotion to country, in love of liberty, of justice, of education, and of industry. You have been made free. No man can now enter your cabin, and take from you the wife of your bosom or the children of your love. (Sensation, and murmurs of "No, good Lord.") No one can separate you now. (A negress, "No, my Lord, they cannot." Another said, "That is a glorious thing.") Your rights have now been secured, and are hereafter to be secured, in the Constitutions of all the States. Never vote unless you vote for your country, which made you free. (Expressions of assent.) Register your names. ("We will.") Vote for a united country. ("We will.") Vote for the old flag. ("We will.") Vote so to change the Constitution of this State that your liberties may be consummated and made secure. ("Yes, bless the Lord.") Cherish no hates nor prejudices growing out of your past relations. Never say or do anything to provoke a war of races. Do not hate your late masters. No body of men since the world began has ever been punished more than they have been punished in this great contest. Their brave leaders! Where are they? Defeated; some of them are in exile, their ideas all lost, every object in their lives gone, never to come back again. As the country grows and becomes the foremost nation of the globe, their record will grow darker and darker. It is a terrible fate. God knows I would not lay any more burdens upon them. If the people of South Carolina honestly, faithfully, in the right spirit comply with the terms and conditions of reconstruction, I believe that their Senators and Representatives—if they can take the oath, and they must take it—will be admitted into Congress, and that the whole controversy will be settled. Lay down your platform of principles, invite everybody to stand upon it, give to all the right hand of fellowship, and you can carry South Carolina for the great Republican Union liberty-loving party of the country by twenty or thirty thousand majority. (Cheers.) The freedmen of South Carolina hold in their hands the destinies of the State. They can place it abreast of the most liberal and progressive States in the country, or they can be false and recreant, and let it linger behind the age, the derision of its enemies and the pity of its friends. Will you do the first? (Shouts of "We will.") All of you in favor of doing it hold up your hands. (Thousands of dusky hands were here elevated.) All opposed to doing it hold up your hands. (The same number of hands were again raised, to the great amusement of the white portion of the audience.) Mr. Wilson set himself to correcting the blunder of the colored people, and again put the affirmative and negative of the question in a way that could not be misunderstood. This time all hands were raised in the affirmative and none in the negative. In the course of some further remarks, Mr. Wilson declared that the loyal people of the country would keep the Government in the hands of its friends, North and South, and that if the persons who are now disfranchised assist loyally in the work of reconstruction, their disabilities would be removed. This he stated as his own opinion and belief, and not by any authority.

Mr. Wilson spoke again in the evening at a colored mass meeting in Hibernian Hall.

He leaves to-morrow for Beaufort, and will be in Savannah on Monday.

EQUALITY IN RAILROAD CARS.

CHARLESTON, May 3.—The directors of the Charleston City Railway Company have voluntarily adopted the following resolution:—

Resolved, That the cars be thrown open to the public, and that instructions be given to the several conductors to recognize the right of all persons to ride therein.

CHARLESTON, May 3—8 P. M.—The resolution of the Charleston City Railroad Company, sent you to-day, was transmitted by the President of the Company, J. S. Riggs, to Major-General Sickles, who wrote the following in reply:—

DEAR SIR:—I have great pleasure in acknowledging the receipt of your communication of this date, transmitting a resolution of the Board of Directors of the Charleston City Railway Company, by which it is declared that the cars of the Company are open to the public, and that the right of all persons to ride therein is recognized. I trust this action of your Company will be appreciated in the right sense. You have removed an occasion for collision and disorder. You have added further and emphatic testimony of the disposition of the people of the South to accept in good faith the legitimate consequences of the enfranchisement of the colored race, in the concession of a common right to share privileges conferred for the benefit of all citizens. You have discharged a plain duty in the manner most conducive to the public interests. It is more gratifying to see the citizens themselves take the initiative in measures tending to promote tranquillity, concord, and peace, than to find myself constrained to exercise authority to secure those ends: hence, I have not yielded to the impatience of those who desired to press this question upon the attention of the military authorities, feeling confident that in this, as in other similar matters, a more satisfactory and permanent solution would be found in the voluntary action of those most interested in doing equal justice to the freed people.

I am, sir, very respectfully, D. E. SICKLES.

To John S. Riggs, Esq., President of the City Railway Company.

A REBEL LECTURE SUPPRESSED.

RICHMOND, Va., April 3.—Again has military authority interposed to check the exuberant sentiments of the unreconstructed chivalry of District No. 1. In this instance no ordinary character in this community has fallen under the notice of the military commander. The most bellicose and unsubdued fire-eater in the literary fraternity of the Old Dominion has been, in the very commencement of a brilliant lecturing career, brought to the full stop. A lecture on "The Chivalry of the South," announced to be delivered last evening at Lynchburg, by H. Rives Pollard, former editor of the Richmond Examiner, was prohibited by order of General Wilcox, commandant of the post. Mr. Pollard, in company with the Mayor of the city, waited on the General to ask him to rescind his order, stating that the lecture was simply a narration of historical events; but the General persistently refused to allow of its being delivered. The irrepressible Pollard came out with a card this morning in the Lynchburg papers, stating that he intended referring the matter for consideration to General Schofield, and if unfavorably decided upon, of submitting this question of free speech to the President, who, on a former occasion, permitted the republication of his paper. He is determined, he states, to deliver this lecture at any cost, and if denied an audience in the South to go to the North or to Europe.

LOUISIANA.

CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN GENERALS SHERIDAN AND GRANT IN RELATION TO THE PROHIBITORY CLAUSES OF THE RECONSTRUCTION LAW.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 29.—The following correspondence between Generals Sheridan and Grant in relation to the registration of voters under the Military bill is of importance, as it proves that General Sheridan did make application for instructions in the prohibitory clauses of the Reconstruction law:—

"In consequence of diversity of opinion, I have the honor to request an authoritative decision, showing who are prohibited from voting under the military bills, covering all cases."

A second despatch was sent by General Sheridan to General Grant, under date of April 6, as follows:—

"I am now in readiness to commence registration in this city. Will in a few days commence throughout the whole State of Louisiana.

"A reply to my telegram asking an authoritative decision on what classes are disfranchised is very important."

The answer to the first despatch was sent from Washington by mail, but was not received by General Sheridan until after the second despatch had been sent. The following is a copy:—

WAR DEPARTMENT, ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, April 2, 1867.—General U. S. Grant, Commanding Armies of the United States—General:—The Secretary of War acknowledges the receipt of copy of a telegram from Major-General Sheridan, dated April 1, in relation to prohibition from voting, and directs me to inform you that it was submitted to the President in Cabinet, and instructions deferred until the Attorney-General completes his opinion upon the same point heretofore presented by Major-General Schofield, and on reference by the President, now under consideration of the Attorney-General.

I have the honor to be, General very respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. D. TOWNSEND, Assistant Adjutant-General.

Official copy respectfully furnished for the information of Major-General Sheridan.

GEORGE K. LEET, Acting Adjutant General.

The second despatch from General Sheridan to General Grant, dated April 6, was answered by the latter under date of April 8, as follows:—

Your question as to who are ineligible for registration was submitted to the Attorney-General. No answer has been received. Go on, giving your own interpretation to the law until answer is received.

U. S. GRANT, General United States Army.

RECONSTRUCTION IN SOUTH CAROLINA—LETTER FROM EX-GOVERNOR PERRY.

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 3.—Ex-Provisional Governor Perry has written another letter against calling a Convention under the Military act. He argues that if called it will be the first step towards a general division of landed property among the negroes. He says it is against nature and reason to suppose that an ignorant majority will not pursue their own interest regardless of right. Thousands of unprincipled whites will unite their destiny with the negroes for the sake of spoils and plunder. He thinks it better that Congress should confiscate the lands, than that such degradation should be voluntarily accepted, and says he will live under a military government, no matter how absolute and despotic, sooner than vote a negro government for South Carolina, which every man will do who votes for a convention. He advises every man, not disfranchised, as he values his life, honor, and property, and the peace of society, to register promptly and to vote, indorsing on his ticket, No Convention."

MR. JEFFERSON DAVIS.

HIS PETITION TO UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

To the Honorable the Judges of the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Virginia:

The petition of Jefferson Davis, by George Shea, his attorney in fact in this behalf, respectfully showeth:

That he is, and ever since the 19th day of May, in the year 1865, has been restrained his liberty and held in close custody as a prisoner in jail in that certain strong place of and belonging to the Government of the United States called Fort Monroe, within the said District of Virginia; and that Brigadier-General Henry S. Burton is now the Commander of said Fort Monroe, and as such holds your petitioner in his custody.

That no ground of detention is alleged to the knowledge of your petitioner, or his said attorney in fact, unless it be a certain indictment presented against your petitioner, at the May term of the above entitled court, held in the year 1866, of which a copy is hereunto annexed, marked A.

Your petitioner further shows that the said May term was adjourned to meet at Richmond, on the 4th day of June, in the year last aforesaid. That at said adjourned term your petitioner appeared by his counsel, and urged a trial at said adjourned term, offering to proceed without delay; but that the Government declined to proceed on said indictment. Your petitioner further shows that at the subsequent term of this Court, your petitioner appeared in like manner; but the Government did not bring on the trial.

Your petitioner further shows that his imprisonment aforesaid has greatly impaired his health, and that the continuance thereof through the ensuing summer would involve serious danger to his life, as your petitioner believes.

Your petitioner further says that ample sureties for his appearance to abide judgment on said indictment can be given, if your petitioner shall be admitted to bail.

Your petitioner further shows that his detention, imprisonment, and custody aforesaid, always have been and are exclusively under or by color of the authority of the United States, and that he has reason to apprehend that the Government may not proceed to the trial upon said indictment at the next ensuing term of said Court, which is to be held in Richmond on the first Monday of May, 1867.

Whereupon your petitioner prays that a writ of habeas corpus may issue from the Honorable Court, to be directed to Brigadier-General Henry S. Burton aforesaid, and whomsoever may hold your petitioner in custody, commanding him or them to have the body of your petitioner before the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Virginia, on the first Monday of May, 1867, at the opening of the Court on that day, or at such other time as in the said writ may be specified, for the purpose of inquiring into the cause of the commitment and detention of your petitioner, and to do and abide such order as this Court may make in the premises.

And your petitioner will ever pray.

JEFFERSON DAVIS.

By GEORGE SHEA, his Attorney in fact.

United States of America, District of Columbia, ss.:—George Shea, being duly sworn, says, that he is attorney in fact for the petitioner in the preceding petition named; that he is acquainted with the said petitioner, and saw him in close custody, as a prisoner, in Fort Monroe, in the month of March last; that he, this deponent, has a general knowledge of the facts in the above petition stated, and that he verily believes the said petition to be in all respects true.

GEORGE SHEA.

Subscribed and sworn before me, this 1st day of May, 1867, at Alexandria, Va.

JOHN C. UNDERWOOD, District Judge.

LETTER FROM SENATOR CRESWELL

The following letter was received from ex-Senator Creswell, in response to an invitation to attend the meeting at Douglas Institute on Monday evening last:—

ELKTON, Cecil County, Md., April 30, 1867.—Messrs. John H. Butler, George A. Hackett, and Others—Gentlemen:—Absence from home has prevented an earlier reply to your kind invitation to be present on the occasion of the presentation of the "Simpson" portrait to the widow of the late Hon. Henry Winter Davis.

It would have given me great pleasure to have joined in your tribute to the memory of the honored dead, had I received an earlier intimation of your purpose. No more becoming testimonial could have been chosen than the glowing canvas, which at once immortalizes the noble features of the hero champion of universal freedom, and successfully vindicates the patient skill of that long-suffering race whom he especially labored to serve.

Cherish his every word; review with tearful gratitude his burning orations; treasure in your memories his toilsome years of service; above all, practise invariably his precepts, modelling your lives upon the high standard which he established for himself; and as sure as justice pays her debts, the near future will bring from all the world a universal recognition of the merits and the rights of the colored men of America.

Wishing you all happiness and prosperity, I am truly yours, JOHN A. J. CRESWELL.

THE EIGHT-HOUR SYSTEM.

A FENIAN RIOT THREATENED IN CHICAGO—GENERAL SUSPENSION OF BUSINESS — AN ARMED MOB PARADING THE STREETS, ETC.

CHICAGO, May 3.—The trouble caused by the attempted inauguration of the eight-hour system by the laboring men of this city is on the increase. The malcontents have received large additions to their members. Nearly all of the laboring classes have joined the movement.

To-day bands of men armed with clubs have paraded the streets of those sections where the manufacturing establishments exist, and wherever labor is active, notifying employers to employ no men but on the eight-hour plan, and threatening workingmen with violence in case they should persist in performing the full amount of work.

Meetings have been held of laboring men in various parts of the city, at which it has been unanimously resolved to work only eight hours per day. In some cases, willingness has been shown to submit to a reduction of wages for the present. The employers stand firmly, warning the discontented, and offering protection to the workmen. The latter, however, have in most cases thrown up their work.

This morning a mob of two hundred closed all places of labor in Bridgeport. The mob was finally dispersed by a police detachment, by whom nine of the ringleaders were arrested.

The authorities are making every exertion to quell any disturbances that may occur. The entire force of the city has been specially detailed, and one hundred and sixty special policemen have been sworn in.

The Dearborn Light Artillery holds itself ready to proceed to any quarter at a moment's notice. Owing to the great activity and determination of the police, no serious disturbances have occurred to-day.

The lumber yard, mills, and workshops generally throughout the city are closed, and labor mostly suspended. It is feared that to-morrow will witness an outbreak of the spirit of lawlessness and riot.—N. Y. World.

Failure of a Stock Operator in Boston—Arrest of the Principal.

BOSTON, May 3.—A smart earthquake in financial circles disturbed the equilibrium of operators in State street and its vicinity to-day, occasioned by the failure of one of the most extensive manipulators in Franklin, Humboldt, Hancock, Huron, Copper Falls, Hecla, etc., in this city, and Corydon in New York. At about 3 o'clock this afternoon, Mr. John Leighton was arrested on a process sued out by New York parties, and conveyed to comfortable quarters, where he will be confined, awaiting a requisition from the Governor of New York.

His failure is moderately estimated at a million of dollars, one house having a claim against him of near $880,000, while his assets are inconsiderable. He was well known as one of the most dashing outside operators in the financial arena of the Hub. He was afraid of nothing, and had the nerve and confidence of a lion, as he was among the bears and bulls. His failure is now the only theme of remark in the streets and at all public places of resort, and at present it is impossible to estimate how serious the disaster may be in quarters where his tracks are not covered up.

Arrest of a Boy Accused of Five Murders.

A boy named Fitzgerald, seventeen years old, has been arrested in Lexington, Miss., charged with five murders. The Lexington (Miss.) Advertiser, speaking of his arrest, says:—

"The premises of his father were surrounded, and in a short time he was discovered emerging from an open field, endeavoring to reach the woods, some distance off. He was hotly chased, and was captured after having been struck by a pistol ball from one of the pursuing party, which made a slight flesh wound in his face and brought him to the ground. He was carried to Noxubee county, the scene of his last crime. It seems young Fitzgerald killed a negro in De Soto county, in this State, a white man in Tennessee, a freedman on his father's premises since the surrender, and assassinated Mr. John W. Shilcutt on the 26th of February last, at the residence of Colonel Richard Cooper, in this county. His crimes culminated in the murder of Mr. Nunn, of Summerville, on the 12th, and his capture on the 18th."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

OFFICE OF THE EVENING TELEGRAPH, }
Saturday, May 4, 1867. }

The Stock Market opened rather dull this morning, but prices were steady. Government bonds continue in fair demand; July, 1865, 5-20s sold at 107⅞@107¾, a slight advance; and June 7·30s at 105¼, no change; 107¼ was bid for 1862 5-20s; 110¼ for 6s of 1881; 106 for August 7·30s; and 99 for 10-40s.

City loans were also in fair demand. The new issue sold at 101½, a decline of ¼; and old do. at 96½, no change.

Railroad shares were inactive. Reading sold at 52, no change; Minehill at 57, a slight advance; and Lehigh Valley at 56¾, no change. 130½ was bid for Camden and Amboy; 28 for Little Schuylkill; 61 for Norristown; 33 for North Pennsylvania; 57½ for Pennsylvania; 13 for Catawissa common; 27 for Catawissa preferred; 54 for Philadelphia and Baltimore; 28¼ for Philadelphia and Erie; and 44¼ for Northern Central.

City Passenger Railroad shares were unchanged. Thirteenth and Fifteenth sold at 19¾@20; 76 was bid for Second and Third; 64 for Tenth and Eleventh; 13 for Hestonville; and 30¼ for Green and Coates.

Bank shares were firmly held at full prices. Mechanics' sold at 32¾@33; 234 was bid for North America; 137 for Farmers' and Mechanics'; 57 for Commercial; 100 for Southwark; 69 for City; 45 for Consolidation; and 62½ for Union.

In Canal shares there was very little movement. Schuylkill Navigation preferred sold at 30½, a decline of ½; 21 was bid for Schuylkill Navigation common; 53¾ for Lehigh Navigation; 15⅛ for Susquehanna Canal; and 56 for Delaware Division.

Quotations of Gold—10½ A. M., 136⅝; 11 A. M., 136½; 12 M., 136¾; 1 P. M., 136⅛, a decline of ½ on the closing price last evening.

Philadelphia Trade Report.

SATURDAY, May 4.—There is a firm feeling in the Flour Market, but not much activity. The demand is entirely from the home consumers, who purchased 600@700 barrels, including superfine at $9@10; extras at $10@11·50; Northwestern extra family at $13@14·50; Pennsylvania and Ohio do. do. at $13@15; California at $16·50@17; and St. Louis at $17@17·50. Rye Flour may be quoted at $8·62½. Corn Meal is unchanged.

There is not much Wheat coming forward, and prime lots meet with a fair demand, but common grades are neglected. Sales of 600 bushels prime red at $3·25; California at $3·40; 500 bushels No. 2 spring at $2·75. Rye ranges from $1·65 to $1·70 for Western Pennsylvania and Canada. Corn is less active, but the advance noted yesterday is well maintained. Sales of 6000 bushels yellow at $1·32@1·33, in store and from the cars, and 5000 bushels white, with elevator, on secret terms. Oats are in good demand, and held firmly. Sales 7000 bushels Pennsylvania and Delaware at 79@80c., chiefly at 80c. No transactions were reported in either Barley or Malt.

Whisky—Prices are nominally unchanged.

THE TRAGEDY AT BAKERSVILLE.

Further Particulars.

[EVENING TELEGRAPH SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ABSECOM, May 3.—This morning the peaceful community of Bakersville, about six miles from this place, was startled by the discovery of a murder almost as great as the Dearing family murder. Mr. James Yeates this morning attempted the murder of his grandchild, a little girl eight years of age. The following are the particulars this morning at 8 o'clock:—He went to his son's house twice, and went away. He came back the third time, the little girl being busy sewing carpet rags for her mother, when he asked her if she was going to take a walk with him this forenoon. She replied "No," but she would this afternoon; whereupon he caught her and struck her first on one side of the head and then on the other; the first blow with the edge of a hatchet, the second with the top of it. Her mother was in the yard, and her brothers and sister playing in the room with her at the time. He then went home, took a razor, and went up stairs, and on his wife following him he pushed her back. He went to his room and fixed a gallows, and getting on a box, first cut his throat, almost severing the windpipe, and then kicked the box from under himself. His wife giving the alarm, some of the neighbors went to her assistance, but found him dead. It was all done in a very few minutes. It is supposed he had become insane, and on determining to kill himself, also thought of the child, for she was a great favorite of his; he has often been heard to say when he died he wanted her to die also. It seems he has thought of it some days. Yesterday he took the little girl out on a pond of water near by, in a small boat, three different times. It is supposed he wanted to kill her there, but his heart failed him. The child is the daughter of Captain Washington Yeates.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER—Judges Pierce and Brewster—William B. Mann, District Attorney; T. Bradford Dwight, Assistant District Attorney.

THE CROZIER HOMICIDE.

Mr. Dwight made a motion to the court to sentence Oscar J. Crozier, convicted on the 1st instant of the murder of Annie Minton. Mr. Bull, on the part of Crozier, made an appeal to the court, asking them to be lenient with him, mentioning his service to his country as a soldier in the time of her peril as entitling him to mercy. Mr. Chipman also appealed to the court for leniency.

Judge Brewster then sentenced him to an imprisonment, separate and solitary, in the Eastern Penitentiary, for a term of ten years.

THE WINNEMORE HOMICIDE.

The Court-room was densely crowded this morning to hear the minute details of the trial of George W. Winnemore, who is charged with killing Dorcas Magilton, on the 25th of April last. This will be, without doubt, the most interesting, as it is the most important, trial of the term.

THE PRISONER.

Winnemore, when being brought up in the van this morning, had an epileptic fit, and when brought into the court-room was deadly pale. He sat in the corner of the dock, with his hand to his face, and had the appearance of one who felt considerable compunctions of conscience at something.

Ten jurymen were secured out of the regular panel yesterday, and a special panel of fifty was ordered, returnable at 10 o'clock this morning, when only one additional juror was obtained. Another special venire of twenty-five was ordered, returnable at half-past 3 this afternoon, in order to obtain the remaining juror. The Court adjourned until then.

The following are the jurors, with their occupation and business, thus far obtained:—

Joseph Preston, storekeeper, No. 5000 Westminister avenue; John Crowsor, salesman, Sharpnack street, Twenty-fourth Ward; George P. Wright, merchant, No. 1518 Ridge avenue; Gideon Baker, car-builder; Hamilton street, Fifteenth Ward; William Windle, superintendent, No. 1413 Reed street; W. Weiss, carpenter, Byberry pike, Twenty-third Ward; Isaac Walker, Shoemaker, No. 1602 Pettit street; George Hawkins, printer, No. 129 Mary street; James Alberison, daguerreotypist, No. 220 Richmond street; Cornelius Sheridan, slater, No. 1303 Caldwell street; Peter Coyle, blacksmith, Fennemore street, Fifteenth Ward; Simon Colton, grocer, No. 1417 Locust street.

OUR PUBLIC SQUARES present a beautiful and animated appearance every bright and sunny day. The grass of beautiful green, and the bushy tops of the trees, which have just commenced to don their summer garb, make the parks enticing places of retreat in the midst of blocks solidly built, and presenting an almost unvarying monotony of color, size, and external appearance. The advent of May, notwithstanding it came surlily, brings with it the return of sweet songsters, whose thrilling notes of freedom bear strong contrast with the hum of busy voices, and rattling noises in the streets. Who does not like to retreat to them? Aldermanic individuals, who have sat in cushioned seats all day, are content to crowd, toad-like, on mushroom stools. Our citizens delight to walk through these forest epitomes. And the children, with great glee and laughing voices, play around the fountains, or about the walks. All hail to these pleasant resorts; would that we had more of them.

THE CASE OF GOTTLEIB WILLIAMS—THE WARRANT FOR HIS EXECUTION IS READ TO HIM IN HIS CELL.—At 12 o'clock to-day, Sheriff Henry C. Howell proceeded to the County Prison, for the purpose of reading to Gottleib Williams the warrant for his execution on the 4th of June next, which was signed by Governor Geary a day or two since. The Sheriff was accompanied on the occasion by Mr. Enoch Taylor, his Chief Deputy; J. E. Salter, Esq., his Assistant Solicitor; Mr. J. R. Chandler, one of the Inspectors; Dr. Smith, the prison physician; the representative of THE EVENING TELEGAPH; and two or three others.

The cell in which the prisoner is confined is on the north corridor of the third floor, letter E. Its dimensions are about eight by fourteen feet. To the left of the entrance lies a small mattress upon the floor. Opposite this is a small stand or table, and these, together with a broken-backed chair, comprise all the furniture in the apartment. The only things in addition that were noticeable were a Bible and prayer-book, which lay upon the floor near the head of the bed.

The prisoner was dressed in a shabby but clean uniform suit of brown, and in his right hand he held a piece of a broom-handle, with the assistance of which he frequently enforced what he had to say, by bringing it down upon the floor in an emphatic manner. His face is quite pale from long confinement, his imprisonment having lasted, as he himself mentioned, for eight months.

When the Sheriff and accompanying party entered the cell, Williams was introduced to the former by the prison-keeper, recognizing him with a nod of indifference. Mr. Howell then addressed him as follows:—

"Williams, I am here to-day to perform a very unpleasant duty. It is to read to you the warrant which I have received from the Governor, fixing your execution for the 4th of June, one month from to-day."

The prisoner nodded his head in response, muttering the words, "One month"—partly as an exclamation, and partly as a question. The Sheriff then proceeded to read the death-warrant, during which the prisoner stood leaning against the wall at the rear of the cell, occasionally stroking his face with his hand, but exhibiting the most astonishing coolness and self-sufficiency throughout.

When the reading of the warrant was concluded, the Sheriff again addressed the prisoner, assuring him that his doom was now fixed, and that he must not look for a pardon or respite, as there was no possibility of either. He therefore exhorted him to think only of the future, and to prepare at once to meet his fate.

In answer to this Williams responded that he was ready to die to-day, having repented of all that he had ever done. But he was not guilty of this thing (referring to the murder of Mrs. Miller), and the time would come when his innocence would be proved.

He complained, however, that the minister who had visited him at times, had not been to see him since last Sunday, and that ten days had elapsed between that visit and the previous one.

He was told that the clergyman in question, the Rev. Thomas Allen, of the Episcopal Mission, had not attended him more frequently, because the Governor had not, until the present, fixed the day for his execution. Now that the time was appointed, it was promised that Mr. Allen would show him every attention, and he was exhorted to listen to him, no matter how plainly he might talk.

"Yes," exclaimed Williams at this point, "he did not talk plainly to me last Sunday, saying I was accused of three other murders, with which I had had nothing to do!"

The prisoner then stated that he would have preferred a Catholic priest, but he did not think it best, as he did not wish people to think that he had made a confession to his spiritual adviser which would never be made public.

He was told that he could have a minister of any denomination whatever, but he expressed himself satisfied with what had been told him, stating also that he had been brought up a Lutheran, at the church at Fourth and Cherry streets.

Williams further adverted to a visit which one of his brothers paid him yesterday, speaking of him in the kindest terms. But he stated that he had another brother in the city who would have nothing to do with him. He had even been compelled to subpœna him on the trial, and then he did not attend, but sent him word that he "might subœpna, and be d——d."

In conclusion, he stated that every attention had been shown him by the keepers, and he requested only one more favor—a supply of tobacco, which was furnished him at once.

Throughout the interview the criminal talked with the utmost freedom and ease, exhibiting no apparent emotion, and giving every evidence of a sound and intelligent mind. Though crippled in body, his intellect is evidently unimpaired.

How a War in Europe Would Concern Us.

From the Nation.

A dissolute King of Holland is persuaded by an extravagant French mistress to offer a triangle of territory as large as a New York county for sale to the Emperor Napoleon for a round sum in cash. Mr. Von Bismark, a sturdy, resolute, big-brained, clear-headed German, who, by giving practical expression to the long-time vain dream of a United Fatherland, has laid the whole German nation spell-bound at the feet of King William of Prussia, protests against the sale. Forthwith the "promises to pay" of the United States of North America fall five per cent. in value in the great money centres of Europe, gold rises in New York ten per cent. in a fortnight—thirteen per cent. higher than it stood on May 11, 1865. Wall street is in a fever, specie payments seem put off again ad infinitum, and the real value of every paper dollar in the United States is diminished by seven cents. Why is it?

There is a law of social science, commonly called the law of the solidarity of nations, to this effect: the loss of one people is the loss of all peoples; the gain of one nation is the gain of all nations; no nation can benefit at the expense of another without ultimate loss to correspond; no people can lose heavily without all other peoples combining to repair its loss. This law is so totally opposed to all ordinary notions about the character of peoples and individuals, and its action is at times so difficult to trace, that it is generally the last law that the student of social science is willing to subscribe to; indeed, some never subscribe to it at all. But it is, nevertheless, truly a law.

When the people of the United States went to war among themselves and prevented the export of cotton, English ships and warehouses and manufactories and manufacturers' depots at all ends of the world were so full of cotton and cotton goods that but for our war half Lancashire, and London too, would have been bankrupt. The outbreak of our war doubled the value of every pound of cotton and every yard of cloth; and good, wise Cobden could rise in his seat in the House of Commons and deprecatingly remark that "Lancashire spinners could scarcely be blamed for wanting the war continued, as it had put £80,000,000 sterling in their pockets." That does not seem like an illustration of the law of solidarity. But mark what follows. First, the Lancashire famine, with 300,000 dependants upon public charity; next, the question what to do with this sudden accession of wealth. The result was the wildest speculation, fabulous investments in all corners of the world, especially in cotton culture, 1200 new companies with limited liability formed in one year, two or three years of financial rioting, and a few weeks of panic last spring, staggering all England with a blow from which she has not yet recovered.

When the people of the United States went to war among themselves, England was sending 50 or 60 millions of dollars a year to East India for cotton. When the Southern ports were blockaded, England had to send 100 and 120 millions of dollars a year to the East Indies for so much more cotton. Then the people of India rolled in wealth; the Parsee merchants bound their carriage wheels with silver tires, and buried jar after jar filled with Mexican silver dollars and American double eagles, and prayed that peace might never come to the Yankee fools. That does not look like an illustration of the law of solidarity; perhaps not, But the law is true, nevertheless. For the fields that raised all the cotton and brought this wondrous wealth had formerly borne rice, and then food was cheap. Now food was daily growing dearer, until a sudden drouth struck famine into the whole kingdoms, just when England no longer wanted all the cotton; and then, by the side of the cotton bales and the buried coin jars there fell 300,000 poor starved wretches, and lay unburied.

When the people of the United States went to war among themselves, they naturally destroyed much property. We have more than once shown that they did destroy much more than they made, and became thereby much poorer. The last year's census of twenty-one States, of which we have the figures, show the taxable property in those States to have diminished during the war from 7200 millions in gold valuation to 6700 millions in currency valuation, a diminution of at least 2000 millions of dollars in gold. As fast as we destroyed, the peoples of Europe were glad to sell us at a profit whatever they could furnish to replace the loss, and waxed rich and richer thereby, and hoped the war would never cease. But when pay-day came we were, as is apt to be the case with extravagant people, altogether unready, and the people in Europe to whom we owed said, You need not pay us now; we will give you twenty years' time, and perhaps we shall not want the money even then; you can pay us interest meanwhile. In this way those in Europe who had profited by our troubles really lent us their property for an indefinite time to repair our losses by the war, and took from us our "promises to pay."

This is the way in which our promises to pay come to be bought and sold at the European exchanges, and the fact that their price and the price of gold in Wall street are affected by the quarrels of European princes, is only another illustration of the same law of the solidarity of nations. It may prove a question of no little importance to us in what way a war between France and Prussia would affect our finances.

The first effect of war in all countries is to impel governments and individuals to possess themselves as much as possible of the nervus rerum—ready cash. The United States are one of the great sources of supply. Can we be forced to part with our specie? Of course, if our merchants were indebted to merchants in Europe, and the European merchants not indebted to us, there is no doubt we should have to send specie in payment of our debts. But an extensive enquiry among importing merchants convinces us that the amount of due or nearly due indebtedness to Europe is at this moment unusually light, a very large portion of the heavy importations of this spring consisting of consignments remaining unsold, and the balance being already paid for. We are not, therefore, likely to witness an important drain of specie in settlement of commercial indebtedness.

The only other means of drawing specie from us is the return of our bonds. Without entering now upon a discussion of the question how far a war in Europe will ultimately increase the demand for our securities, we see that the first effect of the fear of war is to cause large amounts of them to be sent from the continent to England for sale against gold. It is self-evident that as long as our bonds can be sold in England or any other part of Europe for a better price in gold than they will bring by being shipped here, they will be sold in Europe. The price in gold that bonds will bring in this market depends upon their currency price here and upon the premium on gold. A war in Europe does not in itself present any contingencies likely to affect the currency price of our bonds, and we may, therefore, safely say that the price which our bonds sent here from Europe will bring in gold depends exclusively upon the currency premium in gold. The present premium upon gold is based entirely upon the stock of gold now in the country. Any diminution or prospect of diminution in this stock would immediately advance the price in proportion—and so well is this understood by all Wall street, that the price is now, and has been for ten days past, regulated entirely by the London price of our bonds, and has been held at a point at which bonds cannot be imported from Europe at a profit, or, in other words, at a point at which there is no probability of the stock being reduced by heavy shipments.

Last year the pressure of public and private opinion upon the Secretary of the Treasury forced him, against his own better judgment, it is believed, to sell large amounts of gold, and thus depress the price. It is notorious that during the whole of last year's panic in Europe it was, in consequence of the low price of gold, a highly profitable operation to bring bonds here for sale and ship the coin against them. To such a point was this carried that we actually sent more gold over than Europe required, so that a large part of it was sent back in September and October, in payment of the very bonds returned in May and June. The utter folly of this course is too well understood now to permit its repetition to be for one moment thought of. Nothing is, therefore, likely to be done by the Government this time to make it a safe and profitable operation for foreign nations to drain us of our coin, and defer again for an unlimited period our return to specie payments. It seems, then; not unreasonable to assume that, in case of actual war, or of continued fear of war, the price of gold here will continue to rule at or near a point at which our bonds cannot be imported from Europe at a profit.

But, apart from any security thus afforded us against the return of our bonds by the advance in gold, we believe that after the first panic our bonds will not only not suffer a very material or permanent decline, but that, on the contrary, the fact of our being comparatively uninfluenced by the war itself will cause our securities to be sought after in preference to those of any European Government.

We furthermore believe that in case of a war between two such powerful nations as France and Germany, which would, financially and commercially, involve almost every nation of Europe, we should see a repetition of our experience of war in its influence on one financial movement. During the first year of our war the people of the United States withdrew from banks and hoarded over eighty millions of gold, in addition to the sums already in circulation before the war began. If this experience should repeat itself among the less well-informed peoples of Europe, no bank in Europe would be able to stand the drain.

We might then see the banks of England and France undergo the same fate as our banks in 1861, and, after a period of financial disturbance, see their specie come here for safe-keeping, as ours went to Europe in 1862 and 1863. We might then see ourselves reaping the same harvest on sea and land that the European peoples reaped during our war, and praying that their wars might never end. But remembering the great law of the solidarity of nations, let us rather hope that, by the wisdom of rulers and the patience of the people, peace may yet be preserved, as we have no doubt it will be, in spite of the threatening aspect of things; and that many years may pass before that great messenger of peace, the Atlantic Telegraph Cable, be again perverted to purposes of strife and suffering.

Journalism in its Relation to Political Parties.

From the Tribune.

What is the proper attitude of a public journal towards the rival parties which must divide every free country? Should it regard them with equal favor or equal indifference? Should it, on the contrary, "deem this side always right, and that stark naught?" Or should it sustain that one which it deems generally right, yet hold itself free to expose the errors, reprove the shortcomings, and condemn the misdeeds, of those who shall from time to time seek to pervert that party's flag into a cloak for their own greed, or a sail wherewith to waft themselves to undeserved power and eminence?

We did, in years long past, conduct a journal which aimed to treat the public questions of the day in such manner as to give offense to neither party; and experience convinced us that the position of a neutral in politics is irksome, unnatural, fettered. It does not permit him to say what he often feels should be said and heard. The proper attitude of a journalist, like that of any other citizen, is that which allows him most freedom to act as his convictions may dictate; and that is precisely the attitude we hold in conducting the Tribune. We act with that party which we deem right in the main, because we thus give effect to our personal convictions. And one of our most imperative duties to that party, as well as to the country, constrains us to expose and resist any wrong which is sought to be perpetrated under its shield, by the abuse of its influence and good name.

The New York Times, upholding what it sets forth as the independence of the press, says:—

> "The fact that a newspaper advocates the principles and measures of a political party is held to give the leaders of that party a right to dictate its action, and to punish any recusance on its part with the party displeasure. Leading journals too often lend themselves to this unworthy and degrading policy. The Tribune, for example, either from impulse or fancied interest, is very fond of 'reading out of the party,' and turning over to the uncovenanted mercies of mere outsiders, any rival which hesitates to echo the principles and espouse the policy dictated to it by party leaders and conventions."

—The requirement which the Times thus caricatures in order to defy is simply that a journal shall be honest—shall not profess one thing in order the more effectually to do the exact opposite. The Times, for example, did formerly coincide with the Republican party. It now sees fit to favor that party's adversaries, as it has a perfect right to do. What it has no right to do is to use its position and prestige as a Republican journal to injure the great party it has fully resolved to desert and (if possible) destroy; and it is precisely this that we complain of.

In the political canvass of 1866, the influence of the Times was given to the anti-Republican combination which was formed at Philadelphia in July. Even after it professed to accept and support the Republican nominees in our State, it slurred them on every opportunity, sneered at what it charged was their purpose to win the votes of the Fenians, supported the candidate for Congress of the Hoffman Democracy in the district last represented by its editor, and did more to swell Hoffman's vote in the city and State than if it had squarely supported him. Yet the editor, on resuming his seat in Congress thereafter, claimed nevertheless admission to the Republican caucuses, precisely as though he had not been roving all summer with Doolittle, Dixon, and Cowan.

There is a difference of opinion among the Republicans as to reconstruction. We concur with that portion (in our judgment a great majority) of the party which, while insisting on full justice to the freedmen and security against Rebel domination, is yet anxious for an early and general amnesty for Rebels, and for the prompt restoration of the States disorganized by treason to self government and representation in Congress. The Times would seem also to sympathize with this view. Senator Wilson, of Massachusetts, is also an eminent champion of the milder policy, and is now traversing the South in its behalf. If the Times were in any sense Republican, it would naturally regard the Senator's canvass with decided favor. Yet it pecks at him, day after day, in such paragraphs as the following:—

> "Senator Wilson's Southern tour seems to be a case of great cry and little wool. The flock surrounds him, but there is no shearing done, and he is likely to come back empty-handed. The blacks listen to him, but wonder what all the pother is about. The whites let him alone, and have not paid him the compliment of getting angry at anything he has said. He has rated them to his heart's content, and they hear him with civility, if not with respect; and then Mr. Wilson packs up his stock of platitudes and diatribes, and takes himself off unnoticed to the next town. It seems rather dull sort of work. It is not, we may be sure, exactly what the Senator bargained for. If there had been a disturbance anywhere, what a theme it would have supplied him with—what a martyr he would have returned! As it is, he comes back in the position of one who thought to move the universe, and finds that he has not made so much stir as a gadfly in summer. The Southern people soon found out that it was not an earthquake or a whirlwind which had come among them, but only a reed shaken by the wind. And we say that this is very discouraging for poor Mr. Wilson, and we hope he will bear up bravely under his adversities."

—We submit to all candid, intelligent minds that such flings have their impulse in an implacable hostility to the cause and party which Mr. Wilson represents at the South in an immovable purpose to see that cause discredited, that party overthrown. Hence we are impelled to notice the Times' gyrations, because we deem it important that their animus should be exposed, and their malign influence restricted. That such things should be said is of no consequence; that they should be read and quoted as from a Republican journal, is what gives them their sting. So with the Commercial Advertiser, which is constantly quoted by the Copperhead press to show that the Republicans are at loggerheads, and to set forth the hard things they say of each other—nay, its assaults are paraded as Republican confessions!—when its editor is a member of the Manhattan Club, and did his very worst to elect Hoffman Governor last fall. Yet, when we feel impelled to tear off the masks of those who are dealing the Republican party these deadly stabs, there are creatures in charge of Republican journals whom, out of respect to the animal kingdom, we will not call asses, who assume to rebuke our readiness to engage in personal controversy, and gravely inform us that the public cares nothing for the loves and hates, the rivalries and antipathies, of editors! Can this be all stupidity?

The Political Future.

From the Times.

The political history of the past two years has been little more than a record of the triumphs of what was originally the Abolition party, and which has since become the ultra, absolutist element in the Republican party. This element has driven that party from the constitutional position which it held down to 1864, and from one point to another, each more "advanced" and extreme than its predecessor, ever since that time.

Where this movement is to stop, or whether it is to stop at all, is matter of conjecture. If it does stop, it will be from compulsion and not from choice. Every victory thus far has proved to be only the precursor of new demands; and this is quite as true now as it was a year ago. They have secured universal suffrage for the blacks of the Southern States, with the exclusion from the ballot-box of a large portion of the whites; they have abrogated wholly the supremacy of law as administered by the civil tribunals, and have subjected the South to military control; and they have succeeded in giving Congress absolute authority in the National Government. For all this thus far they have had the general acquiescence and support of the people.

It becomes a matter of considerable importance to watch carefully all indications as to what this restless, insatiate, and potent element of the dominant party proposes to do next. What they propose to-day may be law to-morrow. Judging from the past, it is very likely to be so. We published yesterday a letter from Senator Sumner and an article from the Anti-Slavery Standard which will be read with interest in this connection.

Mr. Sumner's leading object in his letter is to insist upon subjecting suffrage in all the States North and South to the regulation of Congress. He demands that the States shall no longer be left free to define the qualifications of voters within their limits, but that this shall be done by Congress. And he frankly avows that the specific object of this fundamental change in the practice of the Government, is to secure the negro vote in all the States for the Republican party. "There are Northern States," he says, "where the votes of the negroes can make the good cause safe beyond question;" and he is therefore in favor of giving the negroes the right to vote in every State, without consulting the Constitution, laws, or will of the people thereof. The fact that the Constitution of the United States recognizes, in express and explicit language, the right of each State to regulate the suffrage, and to prescribe the conditions of its exercise within its limits, is passed over by Mr. Sumner as utterly unworthy of notice. He condescends not to forget "the hesitations" which have been experienced on the subject, but this is all.

If Mr. Sumner and his friends can make it so, this is to be henceforward a plank in the platform of the Republican party. Thus far it has not been enforced as a doctrine absolutely essential to political salvation; but we cannot rely on the indefinite indulgence of this gracious and gratuitous toleration. Those Republicans who hesitate to assert and uphold the absolute authority of Congress to control the suffrage in every State, will very soon come to be denounced as the confederates of Copperheads and Rebels.

The Anti-Slavery Standard, which has been for some time past the fruitful source of inspiration for the "advanced" wing of the Republican party, is still more sweeping, though not more peremptory, than Mr. Sumner in its demands. It opens by branding the Republican majority in the Fortieth Congress as treacherous and cowardly. It shirked the impeachment of the President, which, with more candor than wisdom, it declares to have been the object for which it was convened. It pronounces the adjournment to July a contemptible trick. It denounces the Republican Congressmen as venal and corrupt—charging them with having sold themselves for office in the most scandalous and disgraceful manner. It names individual members whom it holds subject to this serious charge, among them Bingham, Blaine, and Banks, while its denunciation of individual Senators is even more direct and emphatic.

After this cheerful opening of its vials of wrath, the Standard reads a solemn warning to those Republicans who seek to emancipate the party from the domination of this ultra-radical element. It graciously informs them that the only reason why the Republican party has been suffered to exist hitherto, is the fact that the radicals found it the "most available instrument for doing their work;" and it warns them that whenever that party ceases thus to do the work of the radicals, it will be abandoned and destroyed.

These pleasant intimations are followed by an invitation to the Democratic party to come near enough to allow the radicals and the negroes to reinstate it in power. That such an alliance is by no means impossible, would seem evident from the action of the two parties in the last Congress. The ultra radicals and Democrats coalesced more than once during that Congress, and the radicals secured more than one of their most signal victories by the help of Democratic votes. Thus the Democrats and Stevens men voted down the proposed qualifications, and secured universal suffrage for the negroes of the District of Columbia. And the same coalition at a later day secured the partial disfranchisement of the whites in the South, while it gave the ballot to the Southern negroes without qualification or distinction of any kind.

What has been, may be. Meantime, all we have to do just now is to watch the current of events.

Is the South Under a Military Despotism?

From the Herald.

There is much misapprehension as to the status of the South at present under the Reconstruction acts of Congress and the military police required to carry out these acts. We hear a great deal, particularly from the violent unreconstructed Rebels of the South and their confrères, the Copperhead-Democrats of the North, about military despotism, martial law, tyranny, and so forth. In some cases the condition of the South and the facts with regard to the action of the General Government are wilfully misrepresented, from bad feeling or for political objects. But it is evident that many of the truly loyal people do not properly understand the nature of the temporary military police under which the South is placed. Even some of the military commanders over the districts into which the South is divided, have misunderstood the status of that section of the country, and their duties in executing the laws of Congress.

Now, the South is not under martial law. When the Rebellion was subdued and the war ended martial law ceased, and anything done now by the Federal officers savoring of military despotism is a mistake, and contrary both to the constitutional rights of the people and the laws of Congress. The Southern States, though their loyal governments were overthrown by the Rebellion, and their political relations with the loyal States of the North suspended for the time, are still in the Union, and the broad shield of the Constitution still protects the people. The whole action of the Federal Government, from the beginning of the war up to the present time, has been based upon this fact, notwithstanding the opinions and declarations of a few extreme radicals in Congress.

The object of the Reconstruction acts of Congress and the military police appointed under them is only to enable the States lately in rebellion to resume their functions of local government, and to restore them to full political communion with the rest of the States. President Johnson attempted to accomplish this in his own way and without consulting Congress; but his plan was deemed imperfect, unsafe, and not tending to secure loyalty and peace in the future. Congress set that aside, as it had a right to do, and adopted a plan of its own. And here the question arises, By what right or under what constitutional power did Congress act in passing the Reconstruction acts, and in establishing a military police to see that these acts be carried out? It is found in the Constitution, which says "the United States shall guarantee to every State a republican form of government." When the Rebellion was put down there was no government in the Southern States which the United States could recognize.

There was an assumed foreign government, which necessarily fell with the Rebellion under which it was created. It was the duty of Congress, then, to see that a government should be established, and one republican in form. Congress, therefore, had the undoubted right to prescribe the mode in which this should be done, with all the details and machinery for that purpose. This is a power derived from the Constitution, and there is no despotism in exercising it. The Federal Government might, perhaps, have gone further under the extraordinary circumstances connected with the gigantic Rebellion—might, perhaps, under the war power, or under an assumed law of necessity, have paid less regard to the claims of constitutional protection; but happily it has not. The Reconstruction acts are but enabling laws to help the disorganized rebellious States to establish loyal republican governments, and to resume their privileges in the Union, and nothing more.

The Constitution also requires the United States to protect the several States against domestic violence. It is true this is to be on the application of the Legislature or of the Executive. But where there is no Legislature or Executive, or none that the United States could recognize, as in the case of the South when the Rebellion was subdued, what should be done? Is it not clearly the duty of Congress to protect the States and citizens from domestic violence under such circumstances? The Government could not wait for an application from a Legislature or an Executive, when there was none in existence which it could recognize. That would simply be permitting anarchy to reign. It would be no government at all.

The Reconstruction acts, then, in dividing the South into military districts and establishing a military police, have not created a despotism, nor were they so intended. They are merely provisional, and, as we said, only to protect the South and to enable that section to be restored. The generals commanding in these districts may make mistakes and exceed their legitimate powers. General Schofield did, no doubt, in his action against the press of Richmond. The Constitution says Congress shall make no law "abridging the freedom of speech or of the press." The utmost latitude should be allowed in the discussion of all subjects in the South as well as at the North, so long as the press does not incite insurrection or a disturbance of the peace. General Sickles, too, went beyond his legitimate duty in compelling some of the Charleston people to carry the flag in their procession. Carrying the flag or not carrying it was a matter of taste, and had nothing to do with preserving the peace, or seeing that the laws of Congress were executed. Every loyal citizen might regret to see the bad feeling and bad taste of that portion of the Charleston people who did not carry in procession the glorious old flag; but our generals were not sent to the South to be Gesslers, or to interfere in any such small and harmless matters. On the other hand, General Pope acted right in the course he pursued towards Governor Jenkins, of Georgia, because the question was one concerning the administration of the laws and the principles involved in the Reconstruction acts. The military are not in the South to take away or obstruct the constitutional rights of the people. They are there only to preserve the peace, and to see that the Reconstruction acts of Congress be not impeded in their operation. There is no despotism intended in these acts, and we advise both the officers in command in the South and the people not to look at them in any other light.

Bastiat and Mr. Carey.

From the World.

We publish the reply of Mr. Henry C. Carey to some remarks of ours, founded on his apparent inspiration or indorsement of the charge that Frederic Bastiat, the distinguished French political economist, had "seized, diluted, and passed off as his own" ideas original with Mr. Carey, namely, the ideas, or "all that is good in the 'Harmonies Economiques.'"

Mr. Carey, in his past discussions, seems not to have met with that uniform courtesy which his own should have bred in an antagonist; at least, we know no other reason for his supposing it necessary to urge upon us the publication of his reply to our questions. Less would not be justice; but, indeed, our columns stand open for much more information than Mr. Carey has yet vouchsafed, if his future, like his past and present desires, shall be "in reference to any and every question in the discussion of which I have been engaged, that opportunity should be afforded to the reader for examining it on every side, and for being enabled thus to arrive at correct conclusions." Singular to relate, we have never been able to obtain from the Tribune, Mr. Carey's chief disciple, this very justice; but Mr. Greeley is so apt to decline a controversy à la mort, that the matter is of small consequence. If of two antagonists one will not "stand up to the scratch" after the first exchange of blows, there might as well be no controversy. No issue is determined, nor is the public in any manner enlightened. But Mr. Carey's courtesy, we feel assured, is not more perfect than his readiness to contest any issue till the truth is reached.

Mr. Carey denies any other connection with the article in the Press than the obvious one which we had presumed to found our broader suspicions upon, viz., the loan of the Magyar translation of his "Social Science" to the literary editor of the Press.

He therefore declines to request the withdrawal of the offensive stigma which the Press has attempted to fix upon the fame of Bastiat, and indeed seems to justify himself in wearing the chaplet of slanders upon the dead with which the admiration of his friend has thought it fitting to deck him.

For it is here to be observed that—since no discoverer of a new truth desires its monopoly, but seeks above all things to diffuse it—a statement that Bastiat in any of his writings had been at all indebted to Mr. Carey for facts or reasonings which, as a journalist or a bookwriter, he had reproduced in other and various forms, and done his utmost to develop and spread to all his readers, is a very different thing from the charge which Mr. Carey refuses to ask his friend and lauder to withdraw—the charge, namely, of having "seized, diluted, and passed off as his own" Mr. Carey's ideas. It is praise in this shape, praise couched in the form of a calumny upon one of the simplest and truest hearts, and one of the noblest intellects of our time—now, alas! unable to defend himself—that Mr. Carey refuses to disclaim, consents to accept.

It is this issue, then, that is to be tried, and now we have to ask Mr. Carey to afford "opportunity to the reader for examining it on every side." It does not suffice for him to tell us what Ferrara concludes, nor what his own impressions are concerning what it is that unnamed German writers have proved. Their arguments will be estimated at their proper worth by an intelligent public, if Mr. Carey should think fit to produce them to its inspection; but neither they nor we can assume to have examined on every side" this question which our first article raised until Mr. Carey first specifies precisely those doctrines of his for which he claims originality and priority of publication, and upon which he charges that Bastiat practised theft, dilution, and emission with false pretenses.

> [If Mr. Carey imagines himself to have been the author of "all that is good" in Basiat's greatest work, "before the adroit Frenchman seized, diluted, and passed them off as his own," it is worth while to prove the contrary.]

Entire candor also, and the desire which Mr. Carey expresses to "afford opportunity to the reader for examining the question on every side," will require that the correspondence between himself and the literary executors of Bastiat should be exhibited, including the "whole reply," to which he makes an allusion conveying another insinuation against Bastiat's integrity, or "sa parfaite loyauté."

We repeat that the Lettre au Journal des Economistes is an abundant refutation of the charge of plagiarism. Its magnanimity alone should be proof, to kindred natures, that plagiarism was impossible to that illustrious genius whose short five years' labor teemed with works which will never die till commerce is enfranchised, and all human energies which abridge no other's liberty are free. We repeat, likewise, that the fundamental ideas of the Harmonies Economiques were conceived and expressed by Bastiat before Mr. Carey published his first treatise; we add that the logical inter-dependence between every part of the social and political science of Bastiat is close and perfect, but the doctrines which Mr Carey holds in common with him are utterly at logical variance with the doctrines peculiar to Mr. Carey, and of which he among all political economists of high rank now alone enjoys the advocacy, so that a suitable examination will how that, even though Mr. Carey originated the former, whilst Bastiat breathed into the children of his brain the breath of life, and made them living truths, they have dropped from Mr. Carey a sterile, lifeless progeny.

—At Hildburghausen Herr Dingelstedt, Jordan Seeger, and others are busy upon a new translation of Shakespeares Plays and Sonnets into German, in ten volumes, of which the first has just appeared.

—A new Erckmann-Chatram novel has just been published at Paris. It is an episode of the last days of the Empire, a favorite period with the writers in question, and is entitled 'Le Blocus.'

SPECIAL NOTIC

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HIGHWAYS—OFFICE, No. 104 S. FIFTH Street.
PHILADELPHIA, May 2, 1867.
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed Proposals will be received at the Office of the Chief Commissioner of Highways until 12 o'clock M., on MONDAY, the 6th inst., for the construction of a Sewer on the line of Jefferson street, from Randolph to Lawrence streets, to be built of brick, circular in form, and with a clear inside diameter of two feet six inches and with such inlets and manholes as may be directed by the Chief Engineer and Surveyor.

The understanding to be that the Contractor shall take bills prepared against the property fronting on said sewer to the amount of one dollar and twenty-five cents for each lineal foot of front on each side of the street as so much cash paid; the balance, as limited by Ordinance, to be paid by the city; and the Contractor will be required to keep the street and sewer in good order for two years after the sewer is finished.

When the street is occupied by a City Passenger Railroad track, the Sewer shall be constructed alongside of said track in such manner as not to obstruct or interfere with the safe passage of cars thereon; and no claim for remuneration shall be paid the Contractor by the company using said track, as specified in Act of Assembly approved May 8th, 1866.

All Bidders are invited to be present at the time and place of opening the said Proposals. Each proposal will be accompanied by a certificate that a Bond has been filed in the Law Department as directed by Ordinance of May 25th, 1860. If the Lowest Bidder shall not execute a contract within five days after the work is awarded, he will be deemed as declining, and will be held liable on his bond for the difference between his bid and the next highest bid.

Specifications may be had at the Department of Surveys, which will be strictly adhered to.
W. W. SMEDLEY,

JOHN B. GOUGH AT THE ACADEMY.—There is no public speaker living whose announcement is received with more enthusiastic favor by the people than the eminent temperance champion, John B. Gough, Esq., who is to lecture at the Academy of Music, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, on Thursday evening, the 9th instant—subject, "Curiosity," and on Monday evening, May 13—subject, "Habit."

We are certain that the announcement of "Curiosity" for Thursday evening will be sufficient to sell all the tickets the first day. This lecture was delivered in Philadelphia for the first time in October last, and was pronounced by those who heard it Mr. Gough's BEST. Since then he has entirely revised it, and it is now said to be the most humorous of all Mr. Gough's lectures. See special notices.

"THE CROWN DIAMONDS" was given with great effect by the Richings Opera Troupe at the Academy of Music last evening, to a large and fashionable audience.

It is being witnessed by another large audience at the matinee this afternoon. On Monday evening Mr. Edward Seguin will receive a complimentary benefit. It should be born ein mind that next week is the last week of the English Opera.

MRS. LANDER AS "ELIZABETH."—Mrs. Lander achieved a great triumph in Ristori's Elizabeth last night. The house was crowded with a most fashionable audience, and the lady received flattering expressions of approval. Indeed, her performance last evening stamped her the most eminent actress on our stage. Mrs. Lander is the equal of Adelaide Ristori in the role of "Elizabeth" in all but two points. Lander lacks the optimism of art and the magnificent wardrobe of Ristori. Lander is powerful, faithful, effective, yet wants that artistic impressiveness with which Ristori holds us spell-bound.

We are glad to know that the lovers of high dramatic art are to be allowed to witness Mrs. Lander in her finest role—that of "Elizabeth"—during the coming week.

Mr. James H. Taylor was really fine as "Essex"—only, we think, a little overstrained in the scene denouncing the Queen. Mr. Taylor shared the general applause with Mrs. Lander.

Mr. J. B. Roberts, as "Lord Burleigh," played with his usual care and taste, and Mr. Walcot was good as "Lord Bacon." The rest of the artists acquitted themselves in an acceptable manner.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

[FOR ADDITIONAL LOCAL ITEMS SEE OUTSIDE PAGES.]

POLICE INTELLIGENCE—HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—Lewis Mackenzie had a hearing before Committing Magistrate Beitler, at the Central Station, yesterday afternoon.

James Harvey Lentz testified that on Tuesday afternoon he was in the public house of Mr. Patrick Louth, S. W. corner of New Market and Callowhill streets, and that there he formed the acquaintance of the defendant; in the evening Mackenzie escorted witness down New Market street, and on the way the prisoner was joined by another individual; witness noticed the defendant take his watch, while the other man removed his hat; about $15 in money was also taken; defendant caught witness around the neck, and almost choked him while taking the watch.

Henry Bates, foreman of a shoe manufactory on Race street, testified that he saw Mackenzie have a watch, which he stated he gambled for; when the prisoner was arrested the wife of the accused gave witness the watch, which he handed over to the detective officers; Mr. Lentz identified the watch as his property.

The arrest was made by Detectives Henderson and Webb. The prisoner was committed for trial.

CAUGHT FIRE.—The Delaware River Agricultural Chemical Works of Messrs. Baugh & Son, located on the wharf just above the old Southwark Canal, in the First Ward, took fire in the bone-drying room about 7 o'clock last evening. When first discovered by the watchman, the flames could have been extinguished by the application of a bucket of water. There being nothing of the kind immediately handy, the fire spread rapidly, and the immense building, a wooden structure three hundred feet in length, was in great danger of destruction.

One of the workmen turned the steam into the drying-room, and this had the effect of checking the progress of the flames. The Shiffler Steam Engine was dragged by hand through the passage-way, in the lower part of the establishment, to the river, and drawing water therefrom, the flames were speedily suppressed. The entire loss will probably reach $1000. Immense numbers of people proceeded to the neighborhood, expecting to see an extensive conflagration.

CARELESS CONDUCTORS.—Some of the conductors on the city cars are getting almost reckless of the lives of their passengers. On Thursday night at a late hour, a lady, while stepping off a car at Montgomery avenue, caught her dress on the step. The car started, and she was dragged about two feet. Fortunately she escaped uninjured.

THE RESULT.—On Monday last a prize-fight came off near Scranton, Pa., in which a man named Collins, of this city, was one of the principals. Twenty-seven rounds were fought, occupying one hour and forty minutes. Collins was so severely injured that he died a short time after having reached this city.

WE ARE SELLING

Men's all-wool Cass. Business		Coats as low as	$5·00
" " "		Pants "	3·00

" Better "		Coat for	4·00
" " "		Pants "	3·00
" " "		Whole Suit "	$7·00

And all finer grades at prices equally low—made and trimmed in the best manner from a choice selection of suitable fabrics. Our Boys' goods are all on the first floor, nearest the front, convenient for ladies.

We have the largest establishment for the manufacture and sale of clothing in Philadelphia, occupied exclusively by ourselves, and filled with the largest stock and most complete assortment in the city.

We guarantee our prices lower than the lowest elsewhere, or the sale cancelled and money refunded.

HALF WAY BETWEEN FIFTH AND SIXTH STS. } BENNETT & Co., TOWER HALL, No. 518 MARKET ST.

NOTE.—We have recently renovated and refitted our establishment, and introduced a vastly increased amount of light by a new process, the effect of which is well worth seeing.

A CARD.—The undersigned having sold out his store, S. E. corner of Market and Seventh streets, and associated himself with the Great Star Clothing Establishment, No. 609 Chesnut street, above Sixth, cordially invites his friends and the public to call upon him there, and assures them of his ability to supply their wants in the Clothing line from the splendid stock of Ready-made and uncut goods constantly on hand. Custom department in charge of the best cutters in the city.

The people always find our prices the lowest, our stock the largest, and our men's and boys' clothing vastly superior to ordinary ready-made clothing. Our stock is fresh, being just made up, and we could not sell at such low prices had we not bought largely of mill owners and importers compelled to close out. Come and examine.

WANAMAKER & BROWN,
Popular Clothing House,
Oak Hall,
The corner Sixth and Market streets.

THE OLD established manufacturing house of Messrs. John O. Mead & Sons, N. E. corner of Ninth and Chesnut streets, inform the trade and public that they are producing fine plated goods, comprising full dinner and tea services, and table ware of every description, of a very superior quality, and of new and elegant designs. The base is nickel silver and silver soldered, upon which is a deposit of pure silver, of such thickness that they possess all the advantages of solid silver in utility, and for beauty of design and superior finish are undistinguishable from it.

As manufacturers this house is well known, and they refer with confidence to the high reputation they have established in the production of silver-plated ware, in which they have been for many years engaged; and they now assure the public that they will fully sustain that reputation by the production of their hard metal goods (nickel silver), to which they have devoted their entire factory. All articles made by them are stamped thus:—

J. O. MEAD & SONS,
MANUFACTURERS.

And all such are fully guaranteed. They feel it necessary particularly to call the attention of purchasers to their stamp mark. We wish it distinctly understood by purchasers that we manufacture our goods from the base metal, Mr. John O. Mead giving his entire personal attention to this department.

Goods of their own manufacture can only be procured at the N. E. corner of Ninth and Chesnut streets.

G. S. C. E.

AN unusually large and choice stock of Clothing for spring wear is exhibited by the G. S. C. E. at the present time. We have taken much pains in selecting styles, and in the getting up of our garments this season, and are able to offer to our patrons and the public generally an assortment of Walking Coats, Morning and Evening Coats, Sacks, Spring Overcoats, Vests and Pants of every grade, equal in style, make and finish to the best customer work, and of course at much lower prices.

For those who prefer to have their Clothing made to order, we have a custom department, in charge of cutters whose skill and taste are unexcelled, and supplied with an elegant variety of piece goods of all descriptions. We invite an early call.

MAISON FERTILE.—Our mercantile friends will be pleased to learn that Mr. W. H. Harrison has opened a beautiful, comfortable, and cosy public saloon at No. 403 Merchant street, just above Fourth. Mr. James N. Bedloe, a most accomplished and urbane maitre de salon, has been appointed superintendent. Mr. Bedloe has hosts of friends in Philadelphia, and was formerly connected with the St. Louis Hotel. Mr. Harrison's new resort is handy to our merchants, and they can always obtain there the best of wines, liquors, ales, and cigars. A first-class lunch is also provided every day by Mr. Harrison, for his patrons, from ten o'clock till noon. Call at Mr. Harrison's Maison Fertile, and take your friends.

WE WELCOME to our columns again our old friend Dr. Humphreys and his Specific Homœopathic Remedies. We have known the Dr. for many years, and know him as a conscientious Christian gentleman and an accomplished physician. We have used his Specifics ourselves, and they are used extensively among our friends, and are free to say that they are all that they claim to be—invaluable Family Medicines. All who have the pleasure of Dr. H.'s acquaintance know that he would offer nothing to the public unless it was fully up to the standard of recommendation.—Buffalo Christian Advocate.

DEPOT, No. 562 Broadway, N. Y.

DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.—From the reports of the dealers in this city, we think no proprietary medicine has had a larger sale. Its valuable properties as a speedy cure for pain cannot fail to be generally appreciated, and no family should be without it, in case of accident or sudden attack of dysentery, diarrhœa, cholera-morbus; and even Asiatic cholera yields to its magic power.—Montreal Transcript.

ANYBODY IN WANT OF A FINE HEAD OF HAIR should use at once Jayne's Hair Tonic. It will excite the scalp to new and healthy action, cleanse it from scurf and dandruff, prevent the hair from falling off, cure those eruptive diseases which often appear on the head, and in most cases produce a fine growth of new hair. As a dressing, no better preparation can be obtained for imparting a rich and glossy appearance to the hair. Prepared only by Dr. D. Jayne & Son, No. 242 Chesnut street.

"IF you have a good thing to sell, advertise it." We follow the advice, and inform gentlemen who are in need of Fine Shirts to call on Ritchie & Woelpper, No. 27 North Eighth street, who have successfully adopted and carried out all the late improvements in French yokes, suited to every shape and size. Call soon and call often.

SALE OF BOOTS AND SHOES.—The special attention of the trade is called to the large and attractive assortment of Boots, Shoes, Brogans, Balmorals, etc., to be sold by catalogue, for cash, on Monday morning, May 6, commencing at 10 o'clock, by McClelland & Co., successors to Philip Ford & Co., auctioneers, No. 506 Market street.

REAL ESTATE.—J. M. Gummey & Sons' sale, on Monday next, at the Philadelphia Exchange, will include an elegant residence No. 912 Walnut street; a valuable property No. 219 Vine street; several handsome residences on Pine street and North Eighth street; valuable hotel property at Cape Island, etc. etc.

HIGH PRICES DEFUNCT.—From the late auction sales, Ritchie & Woelpper, No. 27 N. Eighth street, have received some fine bargains in Ladies', Gents', and Children's Underwear, Gloves, and Hosiery, all of which will be offered to our regular customers, and as many others as please to call, at lower prices than six years since.

TO GENTLEMEN.—Charles Oakford & Sons, Continental Hotel, have a fine assortment of Gentlemen and Youths' Latest Styles of Hats, and are prepared to suit all tastes.

PERSONS who wish good Photographs should go to Reimer, Second street, above Green. The days are long. Great success with children. Six Cards, or one large Photograph, $1.

THE GOOD OLD STYLES of high Stocks, in satin, silk, bombazine, or hair, can be found at the store of Ritchie & Woelpper, No. 27 N. Eighth street. If they have not the kind you want, they will make them to order at a few hours' notice.

A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM WORTH SEEING.—S. Kilpatrick, No. 1744 Olive street, cured by Dr. Fitler's Remedy. No cure, no pay.

AN OLD-ESTABLISHED TOBACCO WAREHOUSE REMOVED.—One of the most substantial, reliable, and prosperous tobacco establishments in the city is that of Mr. Charles W. Ketler, who has been transacting business for many years at No. 712 South Third street. This well-known place was established in 1828, and, after a prosperous career, will remove to the new and splendidly-furnished store S. W. corner of Third and Shippen streets. Mr. Ketler intends to infuse renewed energy into his business at the new quarters, and his wholesale and retail departments will be such as to command the attention of all dealers in tobacco and cigars.

IF THIS SHOULD MEET THE EYE of any one suffering from Bronchitis, Consumption, Asthma, or any Pulmonary Affection, we would refer them to Dr. Jayne's Expectorant, which will, in all cases, afford speedy relief, and in most effect a speedy cure. Sold by all Druggists. Prepared only at No. 242 Chesnut st.

MISCELLANY.

The steamship England, from New York, at Liverpool, reports:—April 8, lat. 40, lon. 63, passed a large quantity of casks marked "W" in a diamond, supposed to contain petroleum oil.

The Annie Ramsey, from New York for Bristol, was abandoned March 21, dismasted, and in a sinking condition. Crew saved by the C. A. Marshman, from Boston for Rochelle, at Corunna 18th ult.

An unknown schr was seen ashore 28th ult. on Body Island beach, with foresail set.

Schr Ellen, Bethel, which left New York on the 18th of March bound to Harbor Island, with an assorted cargo estimated to be worth between five and six thousand dollars in gold, has never been heard of. It is feared that she got disabled or foundered at sea during the heavy snow storm which prevailed along the American coast a few days after she left New York.

A first-class ship of 1100 tons, called the Alice Minott, was launched from the yard of C. V. Minott, at Phippsburg on the 25th ult. She is owned by the builder, and others, of Bath.

BILLIARD ROOMS.

BIRD. BIRD. BIRD.

After several months' preparation, Mr. C. BIRD has opened his new and spacious establishment for the entertainment of his friends and the public in general, at Nos. 605 and 607 ARCH Street.

The first and second floors are fitted up as Billiard Rooms, and furnished with twelve first-class tables, while the appurtenances and adornments comprise everything which can conduce to the comfort and convenience of the players. In the basement are four new and splendid Bowling Alleys, for those who wish to develope their muscle in anticipation of the baseball season. A Restaurant is attached, where everything in the edible line can be had of the best quality, and at the shortest notice. The following well-known gentlemen have been secured as Assistants, and will preside over the various departments:—

PRESS. O. WOODNUTT,
SAMUEL DOUGLASS,
JOHN HOOD,
WILLIAM E. GILLMORE,
HENRY W. DUNCAN.
PHILIP GRUMBRECHT, Restaurateur.

While Mr. BIRD will hold a careful supervision over all. He ventures to say that, taken all in all there has nothing ever been started in Philadelphia approaching this establishment in completeness of arrangement and attention to the comfort of the public.

The site for the institution (thirty acres) has already been purchased, and it is hoped that the good work may commence before midsummer.

Subscriptions will be received at the office of the Association, No. 1126 Chesnut street, Philadelphia, on and after Monday, the 6th day of May, 1867.

For each subscription of five dollars a certificate will be issued, which will entitle the holder to such article of value as may be awarded to its number.

The first distribution of awards will be made immediately upon the receipt of 80,000 subscriptions of $5 each.

The distribution will be public, and under the direct supervision of the corporators.

Persons at a distance are requested to remit their subscriptions (when practicable) by Post Office money order, or registered letter, to insure prompt delivery.

Direct all letters to
J. D. HOFFMAN,
Secretary Board of Supervisors,
Box 1481 P. O., Philadelphia.

The following is a schedule of the awards to be made under the first distribution. The items of Diamonds and other precious stones were purchased from citizens of the South during the war, and their genuineness is certified to by Messrs. Henle & Bros., the most extensive diamond importers in the country, and by J. Hermann, diamond setter, New York.

The Liberal Victory in England.

While our public journals are discussing the causes of the late defeat of the English Liberals in the House of Commons, under the lead of Mr. Gladstone, news comes to us by the cable that on the night of the 2d instant a division took place on the Reform bill in the House of Commons, and the Government was defeated by the Liberal party. This despatch alone might have led us to infer that the Reform bill had been finally defeated by a general coalition of those opposed to its provisions; but a subsequent despatch, dated yesterday evening, adds that "the Derby Government has accepted the amendment to the Reform bill which was carried by the Liberals that night." From this later despatch, it would seem that the defeat of the Government occurred upon an amendment to the Reform bill, proposed and carried by the Liberals.

It will be remembered that Mr. Gladstone's defeat was occasioned by the defection from his leadership of forty-eight Liberal members, mainly of the radical wing of the party, who were dissatisfied with his proposed five-pound vote-paying basis of suffrage, and who mainly absented themselves when the vote was finally taken. The outside pressure has evidently been so strong as to reunite the elements of the Liberal party, and to consolidate it upon the amendment which was made the point of division, and has since been accepted by the Government. With provoking reticence, the telegraph does not inform us of the character of this amendment; but we should not be surprised to learn that it was in substance Mr. Gladstone's proposal to extend the elective franchise to all rate-payers of whatever description.

The Government bill, as it stood before the amendment spoken of in the despatch, gave the franchise to all householders of two years' residence, and who had personally paid their poor-rates, or tax for the support of the poor. But this excluded, and very unjustly, a large class of householders who pay their poor-rates through their landlords, instead of paying it directly themselves. Mr. Gladstone proposed to substitute for this a uniform qualification of householders paying a five-pound poor-rate and it was this proposal which drove from him the large body of Liberals before alluded to.

The new aspect of the case opened up by these late despatches leads us to hope that a satisfactory Reform bill—one largely extending the franchise, and paving the way for the inevitable triumph of manhood suffrage—may yet be passed.

Walker on the Rampage.

Mr. Robert J. Walker made a lengthy "argument" yesterday in the Mississippi Injunction case, before the Supreme Court. He is reported to have said, in his opening remarks, "that he believed that constitutional liberty and self-government were now on trial—yea, upon their final trial—and it was to be decided for posterity and for all the world whether the written constitutions were mere parchment scrolls, whether they were words written in sand, to be swept away by the first surge of popular passion which may roll over them."

Mr. Walker is famous for this grandiloquent magnification of his subject. We remember when he was Governor of Kansas, that the people of Lawrence, unwilling to recognize the "bogus laws" of the Missouri, Border-ruffian-elected Legislature, got up a voluutary city government, and organized under it, and Walker straightway issued a flaming proclamation against them, calling out the United States troops from Fort Leavenworth, and declaring that their action constituting one of the most atrocious rebellions known in ancient or modern times! The people laughed at his folly, and went on with their city government unmolested.

We think "self-government" will survive, even if Mr. Walker, as he probably will, should lose his case; and that "constitutional liberty will be enjoyed long after "ye great Isothermal," as the Kansas boys used to call him, shall have been gathered in peace to his fathers.

Judge Kelley's Southern Tour.

Hon. William D. Kelley left for the South last night, to commence his stumping tour. Judge Kelley goes in response to numerous and pressing invitations from prominent citizens of every Southern State, but more especially from Governor Wells, of Louisiana, in which State he will be the guest of the city of New Orleans. He is accompanied by Colonel John H. Taggart, as the special correspondent of The Evening Telegraph, and by B. J. Wright, Esq., as the special correspondent of the New York Herald.

Previous to his departure Judge Kelley received numerous communications from friends in different localities in the South, inquiring whether he would be willing to meet gentlemen of opposite views in discussion—to which he uniformly replied that nothing would give him greater pleasure than to meet any Southern gentleman on the stump, stipulating, however, for himself the right of closing the debate in a half-hour's speech. There are but few stronger men than Judge Kelley in debate on the stump, and we trust that gentlemen of opposing views may be induced to discuss public questions with him before the people of the South. We should anticipate the happiest results from such an arrangement.

Colonel Taggart will also write for the Philadelphia Inquirer during his absence.

Polygamy Illegal in Utah.

We are glad to see that the Territory of Utah is at last blessed with a judge who possesses courage sufficient to boldly denounce the crime of polygamy, which exists so extensively around Great Salt Lake, and who declares that such an institution is illegal and criminal, and that when an offender is brought before him he will treat him as he would any other criminal. Judge Titus possesses a clear head and a determined mind, and we hope that the substance of his address charging the Grand Jury will be put into active practice. The Union Vidette, speaking of his address, says:—

> "We, may, however, be permitted to say that while Judge Titus reviewed the question of polygamy exhaustively, from a Biblical, natural, and legal point of view, and conclusively established that the doctrine has no authority in the Old or New Testament, the law of nature, or of civilized States, he clearly informed the Grand Jury why their attention was invited to the subject at this time.
> "Although the journals and the laws of the last Legislature, as published, were utterly silent on the subject, it appeared from the records of Congress that a memorial from the Legislature was presented by the Utah delegate, asking the repeal of the Anti-Polygamy law of 1862. In the preamble to that memorial it is boldly stated that the people of Utah have ever been desirous of testing the constitutionality of that act, but that the United States Judges, although requested, had not permitted it to be done."

It was in denial of the assertions of the memorial that the charge of the Judge was delivered. It seems that both the grand and the petit juries are completely under the control of the Mormons. The consequence is that the question of the legality of the Anti-Polygamy law is never allowed to reach a settlement by the judiciary. There can be no doubt that, if a case should arise, which in all probability will occur, Judge Titus will deal with the criminals in a summary manner, It is certainly time that this offense against law and morality should be forcibly prevented. We have tolerated the evil long enough. To continue to look quietly on, and see the institution spread, is to make ourselves participants in the crime. We are accessories if we do not take steps to abolish the crime. We are glad that Judge Titus is an outspoken and fearless man, and if properly sustained by Congress, he will doubtless do much towards eradicating the evil, and purging our country of a disgrace which is elsewhere unknown, except in a Turkish harem.

AUTHOR'S EDITION OF "DICKENS."
FOURTH VOLUME IS NOW READY.
GREAT EXPECTATIONS.

And is issued this day by the only authorized publishers of Dickens' Works in America,
T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS,
No. 306 CHESNUT Street, Philadelphia.

3250 POUNDS STERLING
was paid for the Advance Sheets of Charles' Dickens' last Three Works.

T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS, Philadelphia, in connection with Harper & Brothers, New York, are the only publishers in America of the works of Charles Dickens that ever paid anything for the manuscript and advance proof-sheets of his various works, so as to give Harper & Brothers the sole right to publish them in America, in Harper's Weekly, and T. B. Peterson & Brothers in book form, simultaneously with their publication in England. For this priority and sole right of publication in America we have paid thousands of pounds—Charles Dickens having been paid twelve hundred and fifty pounds sterling, in gold, for the advance proof-sheets of "Great Expectations," one thousand pounds sterling, in gold, for the advance proof-sheets of "A Tale of Two Cities," and one thousand pounds sterling, in gold, for the advance proof-sheets of "Our Mutual Friend," making three thousand two hundred and fifty pounds sterling for these three books alone, as well as the same amount in gold for each of his other late works. The public will thus see at a glance who are the publishers in America that have paid for the privilege and only right of publishing Charles Dickens' Works in this country.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS. With Twenty-seven full page Illustrations. From Original Designs, by John McLenan. Price $1·25, in cloth; or One Dollar in paper cover, sewed.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

[FOR ADDITIONAL LOCAL ITEMS SEE THIRD PAGE.]

An Alleged Attempt to Defraud the Revenue.—A case of an alleged defrauding of the Revenue came up this noon before United States Commissioner Hibler. The defendants were Jas. Degorge, Frank Adams, and E. C. Clarke. The first witness called was Mr. Amos J. Michener, who affirmed as follows:—

I am a United States Inspector; I visited the place of these defendants; Degorge is established at No. 118 S. Water street; he is rectifier and wholesale and retail dealer in liquors; Adams' place is at No. 129 in the same street; he is engaged in the same business; I visited these places on Thursday evening at 5 o'clock; I went in company with the officers; I went to Adams' place first, and saw both the defendants there; I went into Adams' place and saw Mr. Clarke in the act of passing checks for the payment of whisky; the amount of the checks were one for $1280·40, which he held in his hand, payable to the order of E. C. Clarke; the other was for $35·67½; I asked what the checks were for, and they answered it was for whisky purchased; Adams said it was sold at $2·45 and Degorge at $2·25, the name of William B. Grover was signed to both the checks; I inquired for the key of Adams' warehouse, and he said the drayman had it; Degorge said he had sold six barrels; if these were proof-spirits the lowest price they could be sold at would be $2·00 per gallon; at the price of $2·25 the six barrels would be valued at $547, whereas the check for said sale was but $353·67½; Mr. Degorge had not the book required by law; on the salesbook of Degorge there was an entry of a sale of six barrels of whisky or 243 gallons, which at $2·25 would amount to $547.

Mr. Adams said that he had sold sixteen barrels the day before, but the sale was cancelled the day preceding on account of some misunderstanding with Mr. Clarke; there were 932 gallons, which would make a cost of over $900; he had not the books showing purchases, sales, shipments, etc., required by law; the real amount, or the lowest price at which this liquor could be sold, would call for about $700 over and above what the check for said sale called for; all that I saw Clark do was the passing of the checks.

Mr. Treffts sworn—I am a Deputy United States Marshal; went with Mr. M., and aided in the arrest of these parties at Mr. Adams' store. The testimony of Mr. Treffts was corroborative of the preceding.

The case was continued over until Monday, each of the parties being held in $1600 bail.

Larceny of a Watch.—Last evening Charles Smith, a young man, in company with some friends, stepped into Lewis Schaeffer's saloon, at No. 842 North Thirteenth street. While the others were engaged in familiar conversation with the keeper, Smith, on some pretext, went out and soon returned. Again he went out, as it was supposed in the yard, but it is alleged that the lady of the house saw him up-stairs. Nothing was said. Smith came down, and, standing close to one of his acquaintances, slipped a silver watch slily into the latter's pocket. When they left, this person put his hand into his pocket, brought forth the watch, and, handing it to Smith, said, "This is not my watch; if you are a thief, I am not." Smith took the watch and said nothing. The loss was discovered, and late last night the officers proceeded to Smith's residence, No. 1211 Ogden street, and attempting to arrest Smith the younger, he was beset by all the other Smiths belonging to the household. Smith, Sr., and Smith, Jr., were finally taken into custody, and, at a hearing before Alderman Massey, Charles was held in $1000 bail. William, the father, for interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty, was held in $600 bail to appear at Court.

The Morality of Our City.—Our readers have doubtless observed by the presentment of the Grand Jury for the April term, a marked decrease of crime. This is due, in a great measure, to the severity of the Judges in punishing offenders, and to the watchfulness of the police. There are 334 cases less this term than there were for the corresponding term of 1866. Occasionally there is a terrible crime that startles the community by its horrible details, such as the case of Mrs. Magilton; but the cases of assault and battery, burglary, and fraud, to which we had almost become accustomed, seem to have ceased, and those who committed such deeds have at last learned goodness.

Our police reporter, in making his usual rounds this morning, met with no case worse than drunkenness. The citizens of Philadelphia have cause to congratulate themselves on the improved state of the morality of this city, especially as the population is increasing with rapid strides; and it is but natural to suppose that crime would keep pace with it.

Some Trouble with a Painter.—A good German citizen, who resides at Beach street and Laurel, surveyed the outer and inner appearance of his domicile, and concluded that an application of paint would do it no harm. So a day or two since he employed Daniel O'Connell, a master of the brush, to transform his residence. Now, it is alleged that Daniel went to work inside, and soon numerous placards marked "paint" gave evidence that the transformation was going on. Yesterday afternoon it was discovered, as given in evidence, that with the metamorphosis a transfer was made from the bureau drawer to the painter's pocket of articles such as finger and earrings, breastpins, and five dollars in money. Officer Cave was informed, and after a chase of five squares held on to the painter, and took him before Alderman Massey, who committed him to answer.

Resigned—A Substantial Testimonial.—Yesterday afternoon Mr. G. B. Stockdale, who for so long a time past—seventeen years—has been the Principal of the Madison Boys' Grammar School, resigned his position. The schoolroom was filled with scholars, who were warmly attached to their teacher, who now was about to sunder the official tie which bound him to the school, but not that of friendship and love, which would be ever cherished. A testimonial, in the substantial shape of a set of silverware, was presented by the pupils, to which the teachers added a beautiful silver pitcher and salver. Addresses were made and attentively listened to. Mr. Stockdale resigns his position to assume the duties incumbent upon him, he being appointed First Deputy in the Collector's Office, of the First District, by Mr. Charles Abell.

Handsome Present.—Last evening the friends of Professor B. K. McClurg, the leader of the Liberty Cornet Band, assembled at the house of Mr. H. C. Overbeck, southwest corner of Eleventh and Vine streets, and presented him with a solid silver cornet, valued at $300, as a substantial evidence of their appreciation of his efforts on frequent occasions where the services of the band have been required.

The presentation speech was made in a neat and appropriate manner by Colonel Stephen N. Winslow, of the Commercial List, and the reply by Professor McClurg in his usual happy style, after which the party were invited to a sumptuous entertainment.

Assault and Batteries.—Robert Smith yesterday assaulted Mr. Rumford, manager of the Reading Railroad stables, corner of Sixteenth and Willow streets. It is alleged he struck Mr. Rumford without any provocation whatever. He was arrested at Fifteenth and Willow streets, and was held by Alderman Hutchinson in $800 bail.

Daniel O. Hurn, for displaying his pugilistic abilities in an unwarranted manner upon a peaceful citizen—the proprietor of the Mechanics' Hall, at Third and Green streets—was arrested last evening at 10 o'clock. Officer Liebrick made the arrest, and Alderman Toland committed Hurn to answer in $500 bail.

Wanted Light, but Found Darkness.—William Grubb, in a manner as yet unknown, appropriated a number of tallow candles from a store at Third and Callowhill streets last evening. He was transferring these goods from their late resting place to the railroad, preparatory to making his homeward trip to Reading, when Officer Barr came upon him; and he soon, with dismal spirits, entered a darkened cell, being committed by Alderman Toland.

To the Owners of Animals.—A notice has been given, by order of the Mayor, to the effect that the several ordinances relative to the taking up of all dogs, hogs, goats, and any other animals running at large in the city of Philadelphia, will be strictly enforced after Thursday, May 9.

John B. Gough, Esq., in Germantown.—Our Germantown friends will be pleased to learn that they will have an opportunity of hearing this popular Lecturer in one of his best platform efforts, at the Town Hall, Germantown, Friday evening, May 10. See advertisement.

A Fatal Accident.—Frederick Ansbury, yesterday afternoon, at half after 3 o'clock, was instantly killed by being thrown off a coal train that was passing Port Kennedy with great speed. He has been married about one year, was formerly a sailor, and his late residence was at Eleventh and Washington avenue.

Receiving Stolen Goods.—Joseph Goodman was arrested yesterday, at his residence, No. 529 Girard avenue, on a charge of having bought, for a trifling price, large quantities of lead from a number of small boys. Sergeant Mervin made the arrest, and Alderman Fitch committed him in default of $500 bail.

Fire This Morning—A Child Burned to Death, and Fireman Seriously Injured.—About half-past ten o'clock this morning a fire broke out in a house on the northwest corner of Acorn alley and Locust street. The fire originated in the third story, which was consumed. It was occupied by a colored woman by the name of Mrs. Mary Crippin, and her mother. Mary had two children, aged respectively six and eight years, named Virginia and Mary. This morning when she went to work she left the children locked in the room.

They found some matches, and while playing with them set fire to the bedclothes, and were unable to escape. The firemen reached the apartment by means of the ladders, and Messrs. Richard Keich, of the Good Intent, and James Fearon, of the Schuylkill Hose Companies, brought the children down. Both were severely burnt, and Virginia died in a few moments. Mary was so seriously burned that her recovery is deemed impossible. Chief Engineer Lyle had his hair singed in attempting to rescue the children. While the firemen were engaged in extinguishing the flames, an axe was carelessly dropped from a neighboring house, striking in its fall a lad named Richard Kelly, who was standing on the pavement, and inflicted so serious a wound on his head that he is not expected to recover. He was taken to the Pennsylvania Hospital, where his wounds were dressed.

Hearing at the Central Station To-Day.—Before Alderman Beitler, at 2 o'clock today, Leopold York was charged with beating and pulling his wife, Frances K. York, out of doors. He has been in the habit of beating her for some time, the wife testified. He was held in $800 bail to answer.

Charles Moothart was charged with stealing a set of harness, saddle and bridle, valued at $50, from D. B. Longacre, on Monday, the 23d of April, also with stealing a horse, bridle, etc., from Reifen Zeigler, corner of Eighth and Coates; also a wagon from Samuel Harry. The articles were in a stable at Eighth and Parrish. All the goods were recovered by Reserve Officer Dehaven in different parts of the city. Moothart has the reputation of being a horse-thief, and acknowledged taking the articles above-mentioned. He was held in $3000 bail to appear at Court.

Rev. A. A. Willitts Accepts a Call to this City.—We are gratified to learn that the Rev. A. A. Willitts, formerly pastor of the Church at Seventh and Spring Garden streets, in this city, and now at the Lee Avenue Church, Brooklyn, New York, has accepted the call recently extended to him by the congregation of the West Arch Street Presbyterian Church, and will enter upon the discharge of his new duties at an early day.

Panorama of Jerusalem and the Holy Land, at Concert Hall, on Monday night, painted by that gifted artist, Wunderlich, and to be illustrated by one of our most popular lecturers. We are not permitted to mention his name, but his pleasant face will be recognized by the audience as soon as he presents himself.

[Official.]

PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT!

By virtue of authority vested in me by the Constitution of the United States, I hereby declare and order that all that part of the North American Continent situated north of the 60th parallel of north latitude, heretofore known in our school geographies as the "Russian Possessions in North America," now known as "A big thing on ice," shall not interfere with the rights of other States by intruding its local peculiarities into their territory without the invitation or consent of such States. Complaint is made by many of the Middle States, particularly those whose chief products are peaches and strawberries, that an unnecessary and unwarrantable series of "frosts" and "cold snaps" have been thrust upon them ever since that territory of icebergs has been reckoned in the Union. And notwithstanding that efforts have been made by many, including the celebrated Clothiers, Charles Stokes & Co., under the Continental Hotel, Philadelphia, to render the citizens of the said Middle States warm and comfortable, by providing suitable and cheap clothing, it is understood many are still unprovided for—I therefore order that all persons shall thus provide themselves with suitable clothing from that House within thirty days from the date of this proclamation.

Done at Washington, this fourth day of May, A. D. 1867.

A. Johnson, President of the U. S.

Valuable High-class Paintings.—One of the most extensive sales of valuable and magnificent High-class Paintings, and the last important sale of this season, is announced to take place at Scott's Art Gallery, No. 1020 Chesnut street, on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, May 7, 8, and 9. The collection is one of such variety and splendor that a handsome profit might be realized in a few days, if spectators were obliged to pay an admission fee to the gallery. At a view which we had yesterday afternoon, we could not fail to make a note of a few of the principal works, although it was almost impossible for us to discriminate, or applaud one more than another. No. 285, by Theodore Gerard, is a very pleasing and happy picture. No. 290, by Louis Robbe—"Sheep;" No. 278, by A. J. Verhoeven Ball; No. 156, by J. G. Chapman, are well worthy a kind consideration, together with many others equally meritorious. The paintings are the recent importation of A. d'Huyvetter, Esq. Exhibition free, day and evening, until sale.

The New Grand Square Chickering Piano.—The notice of the musical public is invited to these splendid new scale three-stringed instruments, which have just been introduced. Rivalling in power, beauty, and delicacy of musical tone, and in sympathetic and enduring mechanism, the recognized perfection of the unequalled grand pianos, they have at once secured the universal approbation of musicians and all lovers of the art. OUTRAGE IN KENTUCKY.

The United States Troops Resisted.

Lieutenant Rice Wounded

Lexington, May 4.—Lieutenant Rice, with a detachment of the 2d United States Infantry, last night attempted to arrest the murderers of the negroes at Nicholasville, Kentucky. He was resisted by a superior force, and was unable to make the arrests. He was wounded in three places, but not fatally. A private soldier was also wounded.

FROM WASHINGTON THIS AFTERNOON.

[SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO EVENING TELEGRAPH.]

Judge Appointed.

Washington, May 4.

The President has appointed, and to day signed the commission of Samuel Blatchford as Judge of the Southern District of New York, in place of Judge Betts, whose letter of resignation was received yesterday. This gentleman assigns as a reason for his resignation, increased official duties under the Bankrupt law.

Rev. A. A. Willitts.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE EVENING TELEGRAPH.]

New York, May 4.—The Rev. A. A. Willitts, of the Second Avenue Church, of Brooklyn, has signified his acceptance of the call to the West Arch Street Presbyterian Church, in Philadelphia, and will commence his labors in the new field early in June.

The Boston Failure.

Boston, May 4.—Mr. John Leighton, a leading operator in mining shares, was arrested yesterday by Boston detectives, at the instance of parties in New York. Previous to his arrest the Directors of the Franklin Mining Company, of this city, of which he was formerly an officer, had determined to take legal action against him, on account of an alleged embezzlement of the funds of the Company, and an over-issue of its stock.

The Company obtained a warrant for his arrest, which was served soon after he was taken upon the warrant of the New York parties. Pending the conflict of jurisdiction, the New York parties desiring to take him to that city last night, and the Boston creditors objecting, Mr. Leighton remains here in charge of the officers. The claims of the New York parties upon him are not definitely known, but it is understood that they are connected with a recent speculation in Corydon Gold, and other mining companies, in which he has been largely interested.

CATAWISSA RAILROAD COMPANY,
General Office, No. 424 WALNUT Street.
Philadelphia, April 30, 1867.

To the Stockholders of the Catawissa Railway Company—Gentlemen:—Learning by accident that a disposition exists to make some change in the management of the Company on the 6th proximo, I take the earliest opportunity afforded me to place my name at your disposal, by declining a renomination to the office of President of the Catawissa Railroad Company.

My thanks are due to your successive Boards of Directors for the unanimity which has prevailed in our councils during the past six years and seven months.

The prosperity of your Company, which is now well assured—if a judicious policy in its management be continued—can be best appreciated by comparing with each other the Annual Reports (1st and 7th) for the years 1860 and 1867. Respectfully.

1t T. HASKINS DU PUY.

OFFICE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD COMPANY.
Philadelphia, May 4, 1867.

The Board of Directors have this day declared a semi-annual Dividend of THREE PER CENT. on the Capital Stock of the Company, clear of National and State Taxes, payable in Cash on and after May 30.

They have also declared an EXTRA DIVIDEND of FIVE PER CENT., based upon profits earned prior to January 1, 1867, clear of National and State Taxes, payable in Stock on and after May 30, at its par value of Fifty Dollars per share—the shares for Stock Dividend to be dated May 1, 1867.

Scrip Certificates will be issued for fractional parts of Shares; said Scrip will not be entitled to any Interest or Dividend, but will be convertible into Stock when presented in sums of Fifty Dollars.

Powers of attorney for collection of Dividends can be had on application at the Office of the Company, No. 238 S. THIRD Street.

Fires—Terrible Accident.

Chicago, May 4.—A fire broke out in the building No. 89 South Water street last night, destroying all the contents, and damaging the building to the extent of $10,000. Total loss, $35,000.

Four firemen, while at work in the rear of the building, were buried under a falling wall. Three were taken out dead, and the other is severely injured, and will probably die.

Rochester, May 4.—A great fire broke out in this city this morning, involving a loss of over $100,000 in property, and three or more lives. The fire began soon after midnight, and continued until 8 o'clock this morning, when it was checked. Palmer's block, in Main street, and several stores adjoining, were destroyed; also, Washington Hall block, on the same street. The latter was a large and elegant building, the Hall being used for popular exhibitions. When its immense roof fell in this morning, three or more men were buried in the ruins. The charred and mangled bodies of John Pike, Henry Forceler, and Joseph Wornett were taken from the ruins and conveyed to the dead-house.

[SECOND DESPATCH.]

Rochester, May 4.—It is now feared that several other persons perished, and further search is being made for the bodies.

The following is the list of the principal sufferers:—James Palmer, owner of the block and a stock of pyrotechnics, loss over $25,000, insurance, $8500. The loss of the Monroe estate on buildings, $7000, insured. A. S. Pensly, druggist, loss $10,000, insured; J. Graham, loss on house and effects, $5000, insurance in full; Washington Hall block, Jabez Collins, owner, loss, $30,000, insured for $12,000.

NOTICE.

OFFICE OF THE UNION PAPER COLLAR CO.,
No. 229 BROADWAY,
New York, May 3, 1867.

A notice to the public headed "A Combination of Manufacturers," has recently appeared, in which certain parties, claiming to be wholesale dealers in Paper Collars, Cuffs, etc., have certainly dealt in wholesale abuse of this Company, its patents, and its dealings with the trade and the public.

The respectability of many of the parties whose names are attached to that document entitles it to notice, because it is apparent that they at least have been misled into signing it without a knowledge of the truth or falsity of its statements.

A brief statement of facts as to the suits brought by this Company and their present condition will readily dispose of the chief allegation, viz., that we are attempting to enforce by threats patents which we do not dare to enforce by process of law.

Under advice of our counsel, we brought at an early period three suits, one in each of the three principal eastern cities. For the suit in Boston, we selected as [illegible] use of Charles Weil & Co., as repre[illegible] W. H. Ward, of New York. That suit was disposed of by the defendants submitting to a perpetual injunction, and a decree against them has been entered accordingly.

In New York we brought our suit against the house of J. R. Blossom & Co., said Mr. Blossom being President of the so-called "The Paper Collar Manufacturers' Association" of New York. To this suit two styles of defense have been adopted—the one being an attack upon the character of our corporation, which certainly is not likely to test the validity of our patents, and the other an answer to our bill in equity, of so vague and general a character that our counsel has been obliged to apply to have it striken off or so amended as to give us some information as to the defense really intended to be made under it.

Our third case, brought in Philadelphia, is against Cornelius Van Deusen, Henry Boehmer, and John Van Deusen, trading as the firm of Van Deusen, Boehmer & Co., who are agents of the Keystone Paper Collar Company, so-called.

In this suit the only defense taken by Henry Boehmer and John Van Deusen was a plea, "that the said Cornelius Van Deusen is not nor has he been, since the first day of January, 1866, a member of the said firm of Van Deusen, Boehmer & Co., nor in anywise connected in business with these defendants: but that Isaac Van Deusen, of the city of Philadelphia, and a citizen of the State of Pennsylvania, is and has been, ever since the first day of January, 1866, a member of the said firm of Van Deusen, Boehmer & Co., and connected in business with these defendants, as copartners in the business of manufacturing paper collars." And the only defense made by Cornelius Van Deusen was, "that he is not, and has not been, since the 1st day of January, 1866, a member of the said firm of Van Deusen, Boehmer & Co., nor is he, nor has he been, since the date last aforesaid, in any way connected in business with the said Henry Boehmer and John Van Deusen." The sufficiency of these pleas is yet to be determined by the Court.

Those who were induced to sign the "Notice" may from the technical defense, judge for themselves what party has afforded, and which has avoided, a full opportunity to try the real merits of the cause.

It must be personally known to most of the parties signing that "notice," that we have also commenced, numerous other suits upon our patents, almost all those parties being themselves defendants in such suits, and each one of them having therefore an excellent opportunity to ascertain by personal experience whether we are in earnest or not, and whether those who promise indemnity will furnish it or not.

For the benefit of those who desire to know where they can safely purchase goods made under our patents, we subjoin a list of our licenses:—

DR. WISHART.

WHAT IS DYSPEPSIA?

DYSPEPSIA HAS THE FOLLOWING SYMPTOMS:

1st. A constant pain or uneasiness in the pit of the Stomach—Which is caused by a permanent contraction of the stomach upon the undigested food. It generally begins immediately or a short time after eating; is often very severe and obstinate.

2d. Flatulence and Acidity.—These symptoms arise from the indigestion of food, which ferments instead of digesting.

3d. Costiveness and Loss of Appetite.—These symptoms are the effects of the unnatural condition of food in the stomach, and the want of a pure bile and gastric juice. The stomach is often painfully distended by wind; the appetite is sometimes voracious.

4th. Gloom and Depression of Spirits.—This state unfits many for the enjoyment of life, and is caused by the impure blood furnished by imperfect digestion. In this stage of the disease many persons commit suicide. There is a constant foreboding of evil, and an indifference and positive inability to perform the offices of life.

5th. Diarrhœa.—After being at first costive, the sufferer is afflicted with diarrhœa, which is owing to a diseased condition of the bowels, produced by the undigested food, which is evacuated in the same condition as when eaten, and of course gives no strength to the system.

6th. Pains in all Parts of the System—Arise from the action of impure blood upon the nerves. They are felt chiefly in the head, sides, and breast, and in the extremities. In many cases there is an uneasiness in the throat, with a sense of choking or suffocation; the mouth is often clammy, with a bad taste and a furred tongue.

7th. Consumptive Symptoms and Palpitation of the Heart.—Many persons pronounced as having these diseases have, in fact, nothing but Dyspepsia, the lung and heart disease being only symptoms.

8th. Cough.—This is a very frequent symptom of Dyspepsia, and leads very often into confirmed consumption.

9th. Want of Sleep.—A very distressing symptom, resulting from mental derangements.

10th. Symptoms of External Relation.—The patient is affected painfully by cold and heat, which is owing to unnatural dryness of skin, and the skin is often affected by eruptions and tetters. The gloomy dyspeptic avoids society as much as possible.

11th. Vomiting.—A frequent and distressing symptom. It relieves the pain, but emaciates and wears out the patient.

12th. Dizziness, dimness of vision, headache, and staggering in walking.—These are very alarming symptoms, which are speedily removed by our medicines; but if neglected are quickly followed by numbness and sudden death.

13th. It is impossible for us to give all the symptoms of Dyspepsia in so small a space, but the above are considered sufficient, if we add that the patient loses his memory and regard to surrounding objects, and frequently becomes morose and sour in disposition. We should say, however, that pains in the joints and stiffness of the limbs, which go by the name of rheumatism and neuralgia, are produced by Dyspepsia. Also, a hardness of the muscles of the abdomen, which becomes contracted and hard; and in some cases the belly sinks, instead of being gently prominent.

N. B.—Perhaps we have not said enough of that strongest symptom of Dyspepsia, melancholy. We have examined hundreds of cases of Dyspepsia, who were so much affected in their minds that they constantly forbode loss of their reason, which unfitted them for business of any kind, and many of them have been patients of the Insane Asylum, who are now permanently cured by our medicine.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars are spent yearly, and hundreds of thousands of the best men and women of America linger in pain and die, and fill a premature grave, with that awful disease, Dyspepsia. They try this physician and that physician, but alas! alas! no relief, no cure; and the next we hear of them they have gone "to that bourne from whence no traveller returns."

Out of the thousands of cases of Dyspepsia that have used Dr. Wishart's Great American Dyspepsia Pills and Pine Tree Tar Cordial, not one of them has failed of a perfect cure. We warrant a perfect cure in every case, no matter if it be twenty years' standing. Sold by all druggists everywhere, and at Dr. Wishart's Office, No. 10 N. Second street, Philadelphia, Pa. All examinations and consultations free of charge. Send for a circular. Price of Pills, One Dollar per box. Sent by mail, free of charge, receipt of money.

PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.

A GREAT REMEDY FOR THE CURE OF THROAT AND LUNG DISEASES.

PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.

It is the vital principle of the Pine Tree obtained by a peculiar process in the distillation of the tar, by which its highest medical properties are retained.

It is the only safe and reliable remedy which has ever been prepared from the juice of the Pine Tree.

It invigorates the digestive organs and restores the appetite.

It strengthens the debilitated system.

It purifies and enriches the blood, and expels from the system the corruption which scrofula breeds on the lungs.

It dissolves the mucus or phlegm which stops the air passages of the lungs.

Its healing principle acts upon the irritated surface of the lungs and throat, penetrating to each diseased part, relieving pain and subduing inflammation.

It is the result of years of study and experiment, and it is offered to the afflicted with the positive assurance of its power to cure, if the patient has not too long delayed a resort to the means of cure.

CAUTION.

Whereas, Base and designing men, regardless of the lives of the sick, and with a view solely to their own pockets, are making and vending a spurious article worse than useless—representing it as my Pine Tree Cordial, copying, in some cases, my labels and bottles, with slight variation to protect them from the law, the subscriber has been induced as a protection to the public, to punish a fac-simile of his bottles as last patented by the United States Government; and hereby cautions all persons who value their health and life against purchasing any of the many preparations offered for sale as Tar Cordial, unless my name and a Pine Tree is blown on the bottle; all others being a wicked imposition to deceive the suffering and fleece them of their money, regardless of consequences.

The genuine Pine Tree Tar Cordial is made by a process and of ingredients known only to myself, which secret has never been divulged; and any and all persons claiming to make my Pine Tree Tar Cordial are but vile impostors.

Thursday, 2.—A live Bloomer pays a visit to the Press Club, and makes some remarks to the editors and reporters about the inconvenience and absurdity of petticoats. Her form made a good impression on the typos.

Friday, 3.—The Japanese Embassy are presented to President Johnson, and read to him their credentials. It is understood that the President is preparing a veto for the whole thing.

Saturday, 4.—SERIES COLUMN DAY. The Editor having visited the Academy of Fin Arts, is deeply impressed with the misfortune of persons dabbling in oil.

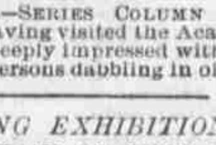
THE SPRING EXHIBITION OF THE ACADEMY OF FINE ARTS.

The pictures in the Exhibition this spring, like the spring itself, are a little raw and cold. The season, so far as Philadelphia artists are concerned, is quite backward, as is plainly manifested by the number of "Herrs" and "Vons" that figure in the catalogue, and the strong packing-box smell about them indicates that a majority of the paintings are a long way from home.

It appears that that rival house further up the street has enlisted the sympathies of a majority of the Philadelphia artists, and who, like the hero of the melo-drama, have resolved to draw and defend themselves. Without the irrepressible Hamilton, the ubiquitous Morans, and the never fainting Lambdin, and one or two others, this exhibition might just as easily have passed for one in Leyden or Genoa, as in Philadelphia.

In Chesnut street, opposite the entrance, is a beautiful tropical picture put, there by some of the Hanging Committee who have their office in the cellar of the State House Row. This picture, which represents "HOTTENTOTS GATHERING BUCHU LEAVES," is very rich in color and design. The Hottentots are very well handled, and are put in just the right place, where they can be seen by everybody. The picture is hung, or, more properly speaking, pasted on a board fence about four feet above the pavement. The lettering on the balance of the poster is entirely too strong, it seems to want distance; if put on the other side of the fence, we think it would be much better for the picture.

On entering the Academy, the first thing that catches the visitor's eye is the hand of the female attendant extended for his quarter; and it makes no difference if he is in his last quarter, as the almanac men say, he is expected to get rid of it, to keep up the lunar figure, before he can shine in the Exhibition.

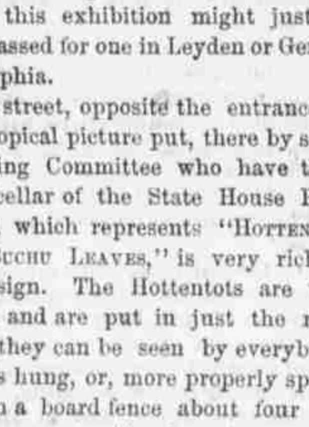


PICTURE NO. 6—VIEW IN THE CORDUROYS.

This is a foreign picture. The scene is laid in Switzerland. There is not much depth to the subject, but the feeling is very fine. The attitude of the principal figure cannot be too highly praised.

NO. 16—JUDITH EXAMINING HOLOFERNES' HEAD.

This well-worn subject is again on the walls this season. Judith, this time, appears in the character of a phrenologist, and, on account of the unwieldy body of her friend, cuts his head off and takes it home with her. The moment seized by the artist is when Judith seizes the raven locks of old Hol in a most familiar manner.



NO. 18—THE OLD MILL.

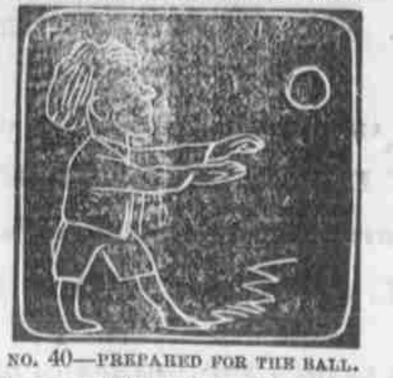
This striking little picture tells its own story. It is supposed to be the reproduction of an old mill that was supposed by all hands to have been settled years ago; but every time the principal actors meet they rehearse it again, to keep the subject fresh in their heads. The handling of this subject is very free, devoid of that mannerism so often seen in pictures.

NO. 21—A RUM'UN GIRL.

This young girl is on a journey to see her uncle, and is now about half-seas over. Her uncle's residence can be seen around the corner, where the three balls hang. The bottle by her side shows her to be a true Rum'un.

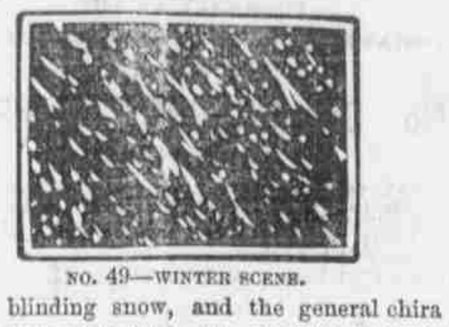
NO. 35—INTRUSION ON FAMILY PRIVACY.

The subject of this picture is no doubt taken from the popular poem of "Little Miss Muffett." The family have retired for the night, and as the head of the family was rehearsing the affairs of the day, a large and healthy spider began to spin his yarn in an unwarrantable nearness to the heads of the house. The fine texture of the web is beautifully rendered by the artist, and the stripes on the spider we have never seen done better.



NO. 40—PREPARED FOR THE BALL.

This is a beautiful and familiar scene. The mirth and joy portrayed in the countenance of the principal figure are seldom equalled, and all the surroundings show that the artist had his whole soul in his study. The general outfit of the figure is true to nature.

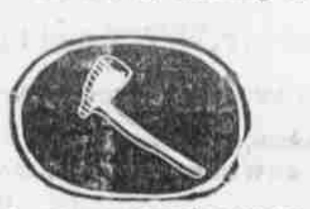


NO. 49—WINTER SCENE.

The blinding snow, and the general chira scuro effect of this little bit of color is truly grand. How often have we laid in bed cold winter mornings and looked out, and wished there only had been a storm like that the last night, so that we would be blocked up in our house! but it was never so. The artist has caught our feeling exactly.

NO. 54—COW DRINKING.

In this picture there is a cow, and near by some water. The cow is drinking it. Very good.

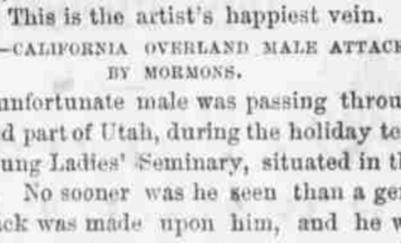


NO. 56—GRANDMOTHER'S DARLING.

This is another beautiful bit of color. The position of the "darling" is well chosen, and no grandmother, we should think, could look upon this picture without tears in her eyes; certainly she couldn't use it without that effect. This is the artist's happiest vein.

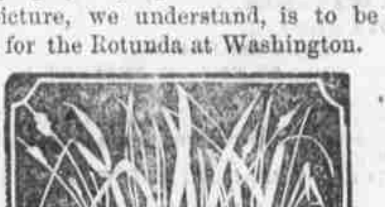
NO. 58—CALIFORNIA OVERLAND MALE ATTACKED BY MORMONS.

The unfortunate male was passing through a retired part of Utah, during the holiday term of a Young Ladies' Seminary, situated in that region. No sooner was he seen than a general attack was made upon him, and he was otherwise assailed. He, however, succeeded in escaping by eloping with the whole school. This picture, we understand, is to be purchased for the Rotunda at Washington.



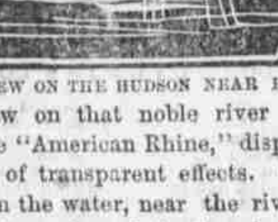
NO. 73—VIEW ON THE HUDSON NEAR PO'KEEPSIE.

This view on that noble river called by tourists the "American Rhine," displays great knowledge of transparent effects. The bending reeds in the water, near the river's edge, are faithfully portrayed in the dancing shadows. The surrounding scenery is well in keeping with the damp, boggy foreground. Few pictures on the walls surpass this in the Exhibition.



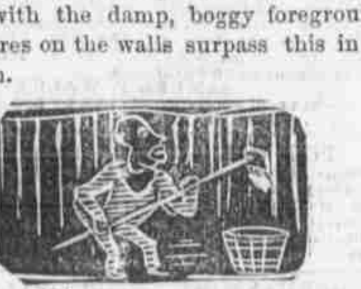
NO. 101—THE YOUNG ARTIST.

The handling of the whitewash brush by the artist is perfect, though we think the boards on the fence a little irregular in their width. The subject is simple, but truthful.



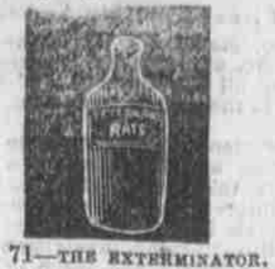
NO. 126—PORTRAIT OF A GENTLEMAN.

This picture, we understand, was loaned from a private gallery, and it is reputed to be a likeness of the owner and loaner. It was requested that the press would not call especial attention to pictures of this class, as it might make it difficult for the Academy to get the use of such pictures again.



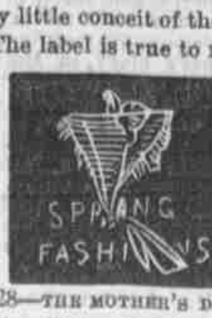
NO. 164—THE ROUND TOP: HEADQUARTERS OF GENERAL MEADE AT GETTYSBURG.

This picture speaks of the hum of war. The base of operations is seen near the Point. General Meade's Headquarters is immediately behind it. It was here the tide of Rebellion was stayed, and how it got untied has been a mystery to many. The artist has adroitly introduced the string, to show how the whole thing was set a-going.



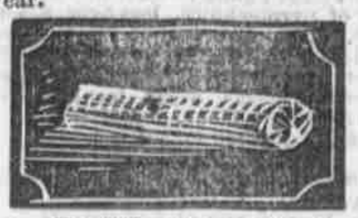
NO. 71—THE EXTERMINATOR.

This pretty little conceit of the artist is well rendered. The label is true to nature.



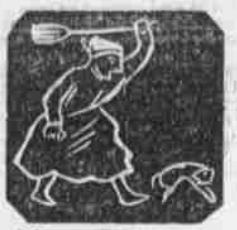
NO. 128—THE MOTHER'S DARLING.

This touching little sketch must appeal to every family man, particularly at this season of the year.



No. 143—WOOD SCENE.

This composition, we are informed, was made by the artist out of his own head. The scene is laid on the ground, and is, we believe, very faithful.



NO. 145—A BLUSTERY DAY.

No one can fail to recognize in this war of the elements a likeness to the scene laid down in Washington Irving's story of "Rip Van Winkle." The gentle dame is here seen not only raising the storm, but guiding it with her own hand.

We close our hasty and brief review by a copy from the Statuary Room.

SWINBURNE'S NEW POEM.

Mr. Swinburne's "Song of Italy," which has just appeared in England, is an enthusiastic laudation of Mazzini and the revolutionary heroes. In one fine passage the poet sees Freedom and Italy in a vision, and Italy is thus addressed by Freedom:—

"Because the years were heavy on thy head;
 Because dead things are dead;
Because thy chosen on hill-side, city, and plain
 Are shed as drops of rain;
Because all earth was black, all heaven was blind,
 And we cast out of mind;
Because men wept, saying, Freedom, knowing of thee,
 Child, that thou was not free;
Because wherever blood was not shame was
 Where thy pure foot did pass;
Because on Promethean rocks distent
 Thee fouler eagles rent;
Because a serpent stains with slime and foam
 This that is not thy Rome;
Child of my womb, whose limbs were made in me,
 Have I forgotten thee?
In all thy dreams, through all these years on wing,
 Hast thou dreamed such a thing?
The mortal mother bird outsoars her nest,
 The child outgrows the breast;
But suns as stars shall fall from heaven and cease,
 Ere we twain be as these;
Yea, utmost skies forget their utmost sun,
 Ere we twain be not one.
My lesser jewels sewn on skirt and hem,
 I have no need of them,
Obscured and flawed by sloth of craft or power;
 But thou, that wast my flower,
The blossom bound between my brows and worn
 In sight of even and morn,
From the last ember of the flameless west
 To the dawn's baring breast—
I were not Freedom if thou wert not free,
 Nor thou wert Italy.
O mystic rose ingrained with blood, impearled
 With tears of all the world!
The torpor of their blind brute-ridden trance
 Kills England and chills France;
And Spain sobs hard through strangling blood; and snows
 Hide the huge Eastern woes.
But thou, twin-born with morning, nursed of noon,
 And blessed of star and moon,
What shall avail to assail thee any more,
 From sacred shore to shore?
Have Time and Love not knelt down at thy feet,
 Thy sore, thy soiled, thy sweet,
Fresh from the flints and mire of murderous ways,
 And dust of travelling days?
Hath Time not kissed them, Love not washed them fair,
 And wiped with tears and hair?
Though God forget thee, I will not forget;
 Though heaven and earth be set
Against thee, O unconquerable child,
 Abused, abased, reviled,
Lift thou not less from no funeral bed
 Thine undishonored head;
Love thou not less, by lips of thine once prest,
 This my now barren breast;
Seek thou not less, being well assured thereof,
 O child, my latest love.
For now the barren bosom shall bear fruit,
 Songs leap from lips long mute,
And with my milk the mouths of nations fed,
 Again be glad and red
That were worn white with hunger and sorrow and thirst
 And thou most fair and first,
Thou whose warm hands and sweet live lips I feel
 Upon me for a seal;
Thou whose least looks, whose smiles and little sighs,
 Whose passionate pure eyes,
Whose dear fair limbs that neither bonds could bruise
 Nor hate of men misuse,
Whose flower-like breath and bosom, Oh! my child,
 Oh! mine and undefiled,
Fill with such tears as burn like bitter wine
 These mother's eyes of mine,
Thrill with huge passions and primeval pains
 The fulness of my veins.
Oh! sweetest head seen higher than any stands,
 I touch thee with mine hands,
I lay my lips upon thee, Oh! thou most sweet,
 To lift thee on thy feet,
And with the fire of mine to fill thine eyes,
 I say unto thee, Arise.

A Dinner of Horse-Meat.

The following note, from an American gentleman travelling in Europe, gives some account of a dinner at which he ate horse-meat, not so greatly to his own disgust as might be supposed:—

"STUTTGARD, March 26, 1867.—I dined yesterday with the 'Society for the Protection of Animals,' on the occasion of their animal banquet. The society availed themselves of this occasion to prove to the public that horseflesh is a desirable addition to the meats now in use, and is so cheap and nourishing that efforts should be made to bring it into use. We had it served and cooked in different ways, and having eaten it in each shape (in fact, I dined altogether from it), I can speak knowingly of its merits.

"We first had filet de cheval.

"This was well cooked, and was tender and juicy, and I do not think that, if it were placed side by side with filet de bœuf, one person in a dozen could tell the difference.

"The next dish was tongue of horse. This was dry, not fat; hard, and had a disagreeable flavor, something resembling the smell of hartshorne. Its hardness may have been the fault of the cook, but it was entirely wanting in the melting tenderness that is the excellence of beef tongue.

"Next came a roast horse; this was again very good, well-flavored and juicy. The animal was a seven-year old horse, not fattened or prepared in any way. In fact, beef or mutton as lean as this horseflesh was, would, I think, have been too dry to be eatable. If the prejudice could be overcome, our fat 'Tom' or 'Charley'* would furnish food for the summer. W. C. P."

---

* "Charley" now draws a coach, at the age of twenty-two. His companion, "Tom," died this spring, and was eaten by dogs.

Ugly Club of the University of Virginia.

The Charlottesville Chronicle says:—

This now famous association held an election on Saturday afternoon, to decide who should be the recipients of the honors annually awarded by the Society. The election resulted as follows:—

1. Mr. H. Harvey Chambers, of Mecklenburg, President of the Club.

2. Mr. William Wallace Scott, of Orange county, was the Ugliest Man, and will receive the Boots at the end of the session.

3. Mr. Fay Hempstead, of Little Rock, Arkansas, was declared the Handsomest Man, and will receive the Hat.

4. Mr. G. W. A. Brantley, of Georgia, was declared the most Conceited Man, and will receive the Slippers. He was run pretty close by Mr. Turnbull, of Baltimore.

5. Mr. Frank C. Wilson, of Augusta county, was elected the Smallest Man, and will receive the Pyramid of Candy.

The Club intend to have a very imposing celebration at the close of the session.

The Latest Thing in Hats.

The Indian Daily News, an East India journal, says:—"We have been requested to draw attention to a monster solar hat, patented recently. The hat measures twenty-seven inches in length, twenty-two inches in breadth, and is twelve inches deep; not only large enough to protect the head against sunstroke—its avowed purpose—but sufficiently large and buoyant, we should imagine, to serve as a canoe on occasions of emergency. We commend it to the consideration of all in want of a really serviceable article. In our travels in South Africa we have seen Kaffir huts not very much larger."

—What wonder the French "Exposition de l'Industrie" is so behindhand, when its conductor is Monsieur le Play?
